PREFACE.

In presenting this work the writer feels that he has at least accomplished something—saved much that may be of use to those who desire to know something of their ancestry. We study the pedigree of animals and take care to preserve a fine race of them—then, why not look into the traits of mankind, and try to develop a fine, honorable, God-loving race ; yet can we reasonably expect to do so unless we study its past history ? History teaches us much of mankind in general, genealogy in particular ; and by its study we learn to emulate the good, true and noble in the race, and to steer clear of its defects, faults and vices. Again, to the physician it is invaluable, for he sees before him descendants of ancestors who had their vices, who had their excellent traits of character, and by a close scrutiny he can advise them against certain evil practices or against certain marriages, or help them to throw off inherited disease and avoid its continuance in their offspring. The author takes pride in saying that his little record is as near correct as it is possible to make it at this late day, and he has been careful to avoid flimsy traditions, taking only such as were of reliable source, and if any doubt exists, has stated by terms of qualification. For years he has been collecting data from public records, such as wills, record of deeds, old newspapers, old letters and from elder members of different families which he has been fortunate to find alive; also records from old Bibles, written and printed family histories, and, in a word, from the most reliable sources, and has only arrived at conclusions after a careful, considerate and logical deduction; abandoning such lines as seemed to be or were erroneous, sometimes going in one direction and then in another, forsaking one line, returning to it, and leaving some as entirely useless and of fruitless research. He has corresponded with strangers abroad; with the Lyon Office in Scotland, consulted Burke's Peerage and other historical works and has had the satisfaction of nearly perfecting the history of the Bulloch, Stobo, De Veaux, Irvine, Douglass, Baillie and other families mentioned in these records. As to the Irvine and Douglass histories, they are perfect, supported by letters of the Laird Alex. Irvine of Drum, 1831, which, with other reliable evidences, enable the writer to trace his branch of the Irvine family to the Irvines of Cults, descendant of the ancient family of Irvine of Drum, and through them to the most ancient and renowned Douglass race of Scotland. He has letters from a brother of Dr. Irvine, from John Douglass Laird of Tilwhilly and Inchmarlo and a variety of evidence to prove what has been herein stated, and to one gentleman, a kinsman and friend, Mr. Dingwall Fordyce of Fergus, Ontario, Canada, the author is especially indebted for a written family history, letters, inscriptions from tombs, etc. Also to his friend, Langdon Cheves of Charleston, S. C., for invaluable Bulloch and De Veaux records; to Dr. J. P. Simpson of Laurens C. H., South Carolina; to Thos. Allan Glen and Mrs. Frances Glen Warrington, and Miss Wurcherer of Philadelphia,

Penn.; to his cousins, the late Mrs. Preston and Miss Margaret Bulloch, and, in fact, to a host of friends and relatives, to whom he is much indebted. By uniting the various sources of reliable evidence with letters, deeds, wills, etc. (thanks to the care with which our records in Court House have been preserved intact to this day), the author is proud to say that he has furnished a work which, though imperfect perhaps in composition and doubtless could be much better put together, is one perhaps in which fewer errors can be detected in genealogy than any work recently published in America.

Should one desire to follow up the various lines of the marriages of Irvine of Drum and Douglass of Tilwhilly, he would find that the relationship of these families embraces most of the nobility and gentry and even royalty itself of Scotland. The Ogstons are an ancient family, as well as the Auchenlecks and Allardyces. The Ramsays of Balmain are historical and noble and from this family as well as from the Forbes of Tolquohon and Watertown the Douglasses of Tilwhilly descend, which brings them into relationship with the royal house of Scotland; also with the Prestons, Leiths, Leslie of Balquahain Maxwells of Calaverock, Mortimers, Lords of Lorn, Lord Forbes, Andersons, Gordons of Lesmoir and Sir Gilbert Ogilvie of Dunlugas Bart (see Burke's Landed Gentry). The Horns are an ancient, honorable family and allied to Leslie of Pitcapel through a marriage of John Horn to Isobel Leslie. The Erskines of Dun are direct lineal descendants of the High Steward of Scotland, the Lord of Bute, Prince Somerled, the Countess of Menteith through Sir John Menteith, of the Earl of Mar and the Royal House of Scotland, of the Lord Ruthven, of the Monypennys, of Sir David Barclay and Sir Robert Erskine and others of the ancient nobility and gentry of Scotland. The Youngs are an ancient family descended from the noble family of Scrymgeour, and the Lord Saltoun and Forbes were of ancient stock. Through the Irvines of Drum, by a marriage with a daughter of Lord Forbes, the Earl of Douglas, and the Earl of Angus, who married a daughter of Robert III., became related to the Irvines and they, with the Douglasses of Tilwhilly, became also of royal blood. So we see by the marriage of Charles Irvine to Euphemia Douglass that the Irvines of Georgia and their descendants are not only descended from the principal nobility of Scotland, but have an undoubted right to claim royal descent. The writer refers to "Burke's Peerage and Baronetage," "Landed Gentry," "Douglass Baronage," the "Clans of Scotland" and other reliable sources in support of above assertion, which anyone who desires to verify can do so by looking up the lines as the writer has done.

References in brief: Dingwall Fordyce Records in Georgia Historical Society, Baillie History in Georgia Historical Society; letters from James Bulloch, Esq., of London, Eng. (not known to be of the same family as Bulloch of Georgia, though the name is spelt the same and both families are from Scotland); letter from Robert Irvine, brother of Dr. John Irvine; Douglass' letters; letter from Alexander Irvine, Esq., of Drum Castle, and other letters; records in Court House, items in Georgia Gazette and other reliable sources.

Errata.

On page 37 it would appear that Charlotte Screven, who married Mr. Cuthbert, and Alice Screven, who married Dr. Jacob De Veaux Guerard, had been left out in giving the list of the children of Dr. R. B. Screven and Alice Bedon, but on page 42 it will be seen that such was not the case. It should be also stated that Dr. Jacob De Veaux Guerard and Alice Screven had a number of sons, among whom was Benjamin Guerard, who has a large family. See pages 41, 42 and 48. Page 43, read Crowell; page 125, read Campbell, not Cambell, and F. Jones married Hallowell Gardiner, not Holloway, and for third wife of Dr. George Jones read Eliza, not Mary Smith; page 52, read Charlotte Morel married Mr. Hicks, Julia Morel married Mr. Fagan, and on page 51, read (next last line), Lawrence Morel, not James Morel. Corinne Elliott, who married R. Hutchinson, was the daughter of Senator Elliott by first marriage to Esther Dunwody. See page 164. Page 148, read Mary Joe Stiles; page 149, Mary Ella Turner, not May. Josephine and William Neyle Habersham had, besides those given, James Habersham and Josephine Habersham, who died young. Page 152, read Sarah Campbell Kollock, not Cambell; page 126, read Sarah Campbell Jones, not Cambell; page 149, read Helen Thomassine Newell for Ella, also Mary Wylly Newell, Nannette H.; page 150, line 1, read Thomas More Newell and Richard W. Adams: page 148, read Florence Vernon Stiles.

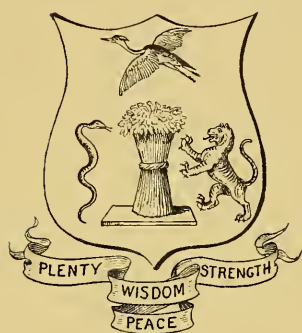

Page 151 should read according to age: I. Mary Ann F. II. Josephine. III. William W. IV. Anna W. V. John Bolton. VI. Joseph Clay, and VII. Frances Habersham.

Page 148 should read according to age: I. George W. Stiles. II. Samuel V. Stiles. III. Mary Anna Stiles. IV. Clifford A. Stiles, M. D. V. Florence Vernon Stiles. The eldest son of S. W. Stiles and Georgia Jacob is named S. Vernon Stiles.

—— West.

Katana King and Hugh Caperton, besides those given, have also James Nephew Caperton.

Bulloch.

The name Bulloch is a very rare one in Scotland, and in America there is but one well-known family of the name, which is and always has been connected with the Colony and the State of Georgia. Although this family is not known to be connected with that of the Bullochs in Scotland and in England (except an American branch now in Liverpool, Eng.), the presumption is that the Scotch family is of the same line as the American branch. The name was originally Balloch, which is from a Gaelic word, bealach, meaning an outlet of a lake or glen; so, in conformity to the custom of choosing names, he who lived at such an outlet was called Balloch, even though he belonged to a Celtic clan and bore the clan name. So it is easy to see that in time the name should have changed to Bulloch.

“The Scotch family of Bulloch are descendants of Donald Balloch Macdonald, Chief of Clan Ranald, brother to Donald, Lord of the Isles, a descendant of Prince Somerled of Argyle.”

Further, the American or Georgia family who, by the way, always spell the name with an "h," not "k," is one of the oldest and most highly respectable families in the State. Besides its own intrinsic value, it is related to or connected with most of the best families of the coast of Georgia and is numbered as one of the ancient and old stock of the country, and he who would inform himself has only to glance at the pages of history to verify that which is here asserted; to look at its connection with the well-known families of Georgia and South Carolina, such as Stobo, De Veaux, Bellinger, Barnwell, Irvine, Baillie, Douglass of Scotland, Glen, Davis, Noble Jones, Stewart, Elliott, Bolton, Dunwody, Adams, Mauvé, Lewis, Bailey, Cloud, Maxwell, Harden, Curtis, all in one way lineally connected with the Bulloch family and collaterally to the families of Habersham, Stiles, Newell, Bourke, Bryan, Footman, Roosevelt of New York, King, West, Langhorne, Cuyler, Warrington, Hodgson, Hunter, Williams and many others. And when direct proof of the assertions made is brought forth, in the shape of coats-of-arms, there will no longer be a doubt as to its standing.

The first of the name of Bulloch that we are acquainted with in America was James, a highly educated clergyman, who could read Latin and Greek as fluently as he could English. He came from Glasgow, Scotland, and landed in Charleston, South Carolina, where for a time he seems to have been a merchant, but after a while moved to Colleton County, South Carolina, where he became a Justice of the Peace for Colleton County in 1735 and a landed proprietor and planter. He resided near Willton on his plantation, called Pon Pon, where he had the pleasure to entertain General Oglethorpe, the founder of Georgia.

James Bulloch, Esq., the subject of above, was born in Scotland in 1701 and died in Georgia October 25, 1780, age 78 years and 7 months. He arrived in South Carolina about the year 1729, as this is the earliest mention of him we have, and married about 1729 Jean Stobo, daughter of the well-known Scotch clergyman, Archibald Stobo, of Stobo Castle, Peeblesshire, Scotland. By this marriage *James Bulloch had three children.

I. ARCHIBALD BULLOCH married Mary De Veaux.

II. — BULLOCH married Mr. Perry of Carolina.

III. CHRISTIANA BULLOCH married Hon. Henry Yonge, one of His Majesty's Honorable Council and Surveyor General of the Colony, who was married to Christiana Bulloch on September 14, 1774, and had issue,

1. ANN AGNES YONGE, married Abraham Jackson.

2. ELIZABETH YONGE.

Abraham Jackson, Attorney at Law (brother of Governor James Jackson and Henry Jackson), who married Ann Agnes Yonge; had a daughter, who married Governor Schley, who had a son by her, John Jackson Schley, an officer in the Navy of the United States.

Miss Bulloch, who married a Perry, was the mother of Dr. James M. Perry of South Carolina, ancestor of the well-known Perry family. With his son, in about 1750, James Bulloch came to the Colony of Georgia and there, in October, 1767, became Justice for Christ Church Parish, and subsequently a member of the Provincial

*NOTE—He married second, Mrs. Ferguson, nee Barker, no issue; third Mary Jones, daughter of Hon. N. Jones, no issue.

Congress of 1775, where, with others, he determined to resist unjust oppression of the mother country. His son, Archibald Bulloch, was a foremost patriot, taking part in all the important affairs in the Province. He was one of the Surveyors or Commissioners of Roads in the Colony, Speaker of Assembly in 1772 and Member of Lower House, Member of Provincial Congress, Vestryman of Christ Church in 1775 and twice elected President of Provincial Congress in 1775, and in 1776 elected President and Commander-in-Chief of Georgia; signed the first Constitution of the State of Georgia in 1777 as President of the State and has always been called the first Governor of Georgia, though really a President and with more power than the Chief Executive now has, for in those trying times he was the bulwark of Liberty.

President Bulloch married Mary De Veaux, daughter of Associate Justice James De Veaux, a large landowner and influential man in the Colony, who, we have good cause to believe, married a daughter or granddaughter of Landgrave Edmund Bellinger, one of the Colonial nobility of South Carolina. The father of James De Veaux was a Huguenot emigrant to South Carolina as early as 1714 and a large landed proprietor and planter in South Carolina in 1754, and many of his descendants married into the well-known families of Barnwell, Bellinger, Palmer, Guerard and others. The name of De Vaux, which undoubtedly is the same as De Veaux and is in fact so spelled in some deeds in Georgia, is an ancient and a noble one of Normandy and in Carolina was allied to many of the best families of the Province.

President Bulloch and Mary De Veaux had four children :

I. JAMES² BULLOCH, Jr., ensign in the Continental Army; one of the first members of the Society of the Cincinnati and Clerk of the Superior and Inferior Courts; then the Chief Courts in the State in Georgia. He was born in Georgia and died February 9, 1806. He married *Ann Irvine April 13, 1786, who was the daughter of Dr. John Irvine, and his wife, Ann Elizabeth Baillie, and had issue,

1. JOHN IRVINE BULLOCH.

2. JAMES³ STEPHENS BULLOCH.

3. JANE BULLOCH, married John Dunwody.

John Irvine Bulloch, their eldest son, was born in Georgia and was Clerk of the Federal or United District Court, President of the Junior Club (a political organization) July 4, 1809, and died at his mother's residence, Cedar Hill, Liberty County, Ga., in 1827.

He married on January 1, 1814, Charlotte Glen, daughter of Chief Justice John Glen, son of Royal Governor James Glen of South Carolina and Elizabeth Wilson, who was granddaughter of Sir William Wilson, Baronet. John Glen married Sarah Jones, daughter of Dr. Noble Wymberley Jones, and Sarah Davis, daughter of John Davis, Esq. Issue of this marriage were :

1. WM. GASTON BULLOCH.

2. JAMES POWELL BULLOCH, died young.

3. JANE BULLOCH, born August 9, 1823, and married John Henry Colburn, and had issue,

1. JAMES POTTER COLBURN, married, issue extinct.

*NOTE—Ann Bulloch, married second time James Powell of Liberty County. No issue.

2. SARAH COLBURN, born April 11, 1852.

3. WILLIAM COLBURN, dead.

Wm. Gaston Bulloch, eldest son of John Irvine Bulloch, was born 3d of August, 1815, and was a noted physician, surgeon and oculist of his day, a writer of much ability, President of Georgia Medical Society, Alderman of Savannah, Physician to Abrahams Home and Savannah Hospital, one of the founders and professor therein of Savannah Medical College, Surgeon in Confederate States Army, rank of Major, etc. He married November 6, 1851, Mary Eliza Adams Lewis, daughter of John Lewis, Esq., merchant, Superintendent of Roswell Sunday School, Elder in Independent Presbyterian Church of Savannah, son of Joseph Lewis and Margaret ^{Savannah} Harriss, son of Samuel Lewis of Jamestown, Virginia, and his wife, Charlotte Virginia Morgan of same place, (John Lewis married Margaret King, née Adams, second wife, who was the daughter of Nathaniel Adams, planter, and Annie Bolton, daughter of Robert Bolton, Esq., and Susannah Mauvé, daughter of Matthew and Jane Mauvé of Switzerland) and had issue,

1. JOSEPH GASTON BULLOCH, M. D.

2. ROBERT HUTCHINSON BULLOCH, born September 14, 1854.

3. MARGARET HARDEE BULLOCH, born November 12, 1858, died.

4. MARY BULLOCH (dead).

5. JOHNNANNA BULLOCH (dead).

6. EMMA HAMILTON BULLOCH, born September 30, 1869.

Joseph Gaston Bulloch, M. D., the compiler of this record, was born on October 12, 1852, and married on the 15th of April, 1880, Eunice Helena Cloud Bailey, daughter of Charles Bailey, Esq. and Ann Cloud. Charles Bailey, planter, of South Carolina, was the son of Isaac Bailey, of Connecticut (East Hampton), and Dolly Dutton. Ann Cloud was the daughter of Joseph Cloud, who had settled in South Carolina before the Revolutionary war and took part therein. He married Martha Nettles, daughter of Zachariah Nettles of South Carolina and Nancy Schofield of North Carolina. Joseph Cloud was the son of William Cloud of Virginia and Pennsylvania (name originally St. Cloud of French extraction) and Alice Harden.

The issue of Dr. Joseph Gaston Bulloch, son of Dr. William Gaston Bulloch and Mary Lewis his wife, and Eunice Helena Cloud Bailey were:

- *1. ARCHIBALD IRVINE DEVEAUX BULLOCH.
2. WILLIAM GASTON GLEN BULLOCH.
3. DOUGLASS EUGENE ST. CLOUD BULLOCH.

Major James Stephens Bulloch, second son of James Bulloch, Jr., and Ann Irvine, married first, Esther Elliott, daughter of United States Senator John Elliott and Esther Dunwody, son of Major Elliott and Rebecca Jane Maxwell, of a family that settled in Liberty County as early as 1752 from Dorchester, S. C., and of the old family

NOTE.—Archibald was born November 5, 1884, and is named after his ancestors, Archibald Bulloch, Governor of Georgia; James De Veaux, Judge of the King's Court, and Dr. John Irvine, Vice President of Georgia Medical Society and a noted physician of his day, son of Charles Irvine of Cults and Euphemia Douglass, daughter of John Douglass Laird of Tilwhilly and Inchmarlo, descendant of Sir John Douglass, younger brother to first Earl of Morton. William Gaston Glen was born July 6, 1886, is named William Gaston after his grand-father and Glen after his great-great-grand-father, Judge John Glen. Douglass Eugene St. Cloud was born January 9, 1889, and is named Douglass after Euphemia and her father John Douglass of Tilwhilly, also after my wife's brother Douglass, Eugene for Dr. Jarnigan, my wife's sister's husband, and St. Cloud after the Clouds.

of Elliott, who we think emigrated with Rev. William Screven to South Carolina at an early day. Esther Dunwody was the daughter of Dr. James Dunwody, originally Dinwiddie from Pennsylvania but of Scotch extraction, and of same family of Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia. Dr. James Dunwody was an eminent practitioner of Liberty County, Georgia, and came to Georgia about 1772 and was one of the first executive council of the free colony of Georgia. James Dunwody married Esther (Dean) wife of Edward Splatt and daughter of Mr. Dean, and we feel sure Miss Marion of the Marion family of South Carolina. The issue of this marriage was Capt. James⁴ Dunwody Bulloch, who was born on June 25, 1823, in Savannah, Ga., and married Harriott Cross, daughter of Brigadier General Osborne Cross of United States Army, and had issue,

1. JAMES⁵ BULLOCH.
2. DUNWODY BULLOCH.
3. STEWART BULLOCH.
4. JESSIE BULLOCH, married M. Hyslop-Maxwell, son of a landed proprietor of Scotland (Dumfries).
5. LOUISA BULLOCH.

Captain James Dunwody Bulloch, formerly an officer in the Navy of the United States and afterward a captain in the merchant service, upon the breaking out of hostilities between the States immediately joined the Government of the Confederate States and was sent abroad to represent the Confederacy as naval agent in Europe, where he exercised his valuable talents in rendering aid to the Lost Cause, and though having large sums of money entrusted to his care he came out of the conflict unscathed and covered with honor and glory. His father, Major James Stephens Bulloch, was also a man of note in his day and was one among the first board of directors under whose auspices the first steamship "Savannah" crossed the Atlantic ocean. He was also Major of the Chatham Battalion, Vice President of the Union Society and Deputy Collector of Port.

Major James Stephens Bulloch married, second time, the widow but second wife of Senator John Elliott, who died 1827. Her maiden name was Martha Stewart, daughter of the famous Revolutionary soldier, General Daniel Stewart, son of John Stewart, who came to Liberty County, Georgia, in 1752, and was the son of John Stewart, Sr., of Dorchester, South Carolina, who also moved to Georgia before the Revolutionary War, and who evidently was one of the best of the new Colonists. By this marriage the issue were :

1. ANNA BULLOCH, married James K. Gracie of New York.

2. MARTHA BULLOCH, married Theodore Roosevelt of New York.

3. IRVINE S. BULLOCH, married Miss Sayre of New York. ¹⁸²²
England

Irvine S. Bulloch lives in Liverpool and was Sailing Master of Alabama during fight off Coast of France with U. S. steamer Kearsage, which vessel sunk the Alabama. Irvine Bulloch was subsequently made a Lieutenant in the Confederate States Navy.

Martha Bulloch and Theodore Roosevelt were married December 22, 1853, and their children were :

NOTE.—Captain James D. Bulloch married first, Lizzie, daughter of James Caskie of Richmond, Virginia, formerly of Kilmarneck, Scotland, but by her had no issue.

Letter from James Bulloch, not known to be of same family:

2ND JULY, 1888, LONDON, }
26, Holland Park, Notting Hill, W. }

DEAR SIR—I duly received your letter of 28th May and I apologize for not replying to it ere this. I can go a long way back as to the origin of the name of Bulloch. Here it is: Connected with my Fore-fathers.—“Archibald Bulloch, son “of John Bulloch and Margaret Buchanan, born at Baldernoch in Stirling-shire, on 6th April, 1729, died from an accident at same place, age 36, leaving issue—John, James, and several daughters. His wife's name was Jane “Bowie. The said son, John Bulloch, born at Blochairn, in same parish and “county, in 1749 (my Grandfather) married Janet Rae, removed to Duntocher, “in Dumbartonshire, and died there, aged 97 years. He had several sons and “daughters, among whom John, the second son (my Father), born in 1800, “married Margaret Hart, daughter of John Hart, Maryhill, by his wife, Jane “Lothead. Said son, John Bulloch, died in Glasgow in 1843. He had six “sons and two daughters, viz.: John, Jesse, Margaret, Archibald, James “(myself), Matthew, Alexander Rae and George. Alexander Rae died in infancy “and Archibald and George have also died, leaving issue.” My Mother and all the others are still to the fore. We have all along been connected with mercantile pursuits, in connection with various parts of the world. The name is very uncommon in Scotland and I am the only one in London, since my brother George’s death, a few years ago, after his return from Burmah, where he and I made a name, but now I am a retired man for some 14 years. I omitted to say: “The Bullochs are descendants of Donald Bulloch McDonald, brother of Mac- “donald, Lord of the Isles. Two sons of that family came to Stirlingshire in “the fifteenth century.” I am yours, aye, truly,

JAMES BULLOCH.

J. G. BULLOCH, Esq., M. D., Savannah, U. S. A.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF HON. ARCHIBALD BULLOCH, PRESIDENT AND COMMANDER- IN-CHIEF OF GEORGIA, 1776-77.

The Hon. Archibald Bulloch was born in Carolina in about 1729 and was son of James Bulloch, Esq., and Jean Stobo, and when needed as a leader gave his knowledge and ability to help Georgia pass through the fiery ordeal and to throw off the foreign yoke which oppressed her and to enable her to proclaim herself free and independent. See what the historian says of him: So great was the alarm and so imminent the danger that a part of the militia of the State were ordered into service and a camp was formed at Medway Meeting House. The rest of the militia were commanded to hold themselves ready to turn out with arms at a moment’s warning; while the President (Archibald Bulloch, President and Commander-in-Chief of the State of Georgia 1776-1777), finding it sometimes impossible to collect the Council of Safety was desired by a resolution of the Council passed on the 22d February, 1777, "to take upon himself the whole executive powers of government (virtually a dictator), calling to his assistance not less than five persons of his own choosing, to consult and advise on every urgent occasion when a sufficient number of councillors cannot be convened to make a board." This was giving to the President extraordinary powers; but the Council knew the prudence and reliability of the man to whom they intrusted them and hence confided fully in his wisdom and patriotism. Mr. Bulloch did not long hold these dictator-like powers; for, before the close of the month he died and Button Gwinnett was elected to succeed him as President of the Council of Safety. Mr. Bulloch seemed to be just the man for the critical time in which he lived and for the responsible station which he held. He was one of the foremost to assert and maintain the liberties of his country, even before the rupture with Great Britain, and when the friends of American rights in Georgia were few and fearful. When Bryan had been ejected from the Governor's Council and Wylly had been ejected from the Clerkship and Jones from the Speaker's chair for their freedom of thought; when it was hazardous to come in collision with the royal power and provoke the wrath of a King's Governor; when it was almost treason to talk the honest sentiments of a free man, Archibald Bulloch and three others came out over their own signatures with a call for a meeting of those opposed to the unjust acts of England and anxious for a redress of their grievances. His death was a heavy loss to Georgia at a moment when it could hardly be borne; for all parties of Liberty men were united on him, and on him alone; and when he was called hence by the fiat of God, divisions and discord rent the ranks of the Americans, and it was not until blood had flowed, and years of animosity passed, that harmony again pervaded our councils. Had not Mr. Bulloch been so deeply engaged in provincial affairs as to prevent his attendance at Philadelphia in the Congress of 1776, to which he was elected, his name would have gone down to posterity as one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. If he failed, however, of securing this distinction, he gained the honor of being the first Republican Governor of Georgia—the people's first choice to their highest office—one who sacrificed his private views for the public good, and who died in the very harness of executive authority, revered and cherished by his native province.” “Mr. Bulloch proved himself worthy of the trust; diligent, active, unflinching, he sustained himself in the executive chair with an ability suited to the station, and an energy adequate to the crisis. His modesty and Republicanism were very happily displayed at his first assumption of executive power. When Colonel McIntosh, Commander of the Continental Battalion in Savannah, tendered President Bulloch the military courtesy which had usually been paid to Governor Wright, and posted a sentinel at his door, he addressed him a note, saying, ‘I beg you will immediately order the sentinel to be removed from my door; the grenadiers are already removed in consequence of my orders. I act for a free people, in whom I have an entire confidence and dependence, and would wish upon all occasions to avoid ostentation.’ The Honorable Archibald Bulloch, President and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of Georgia, was the first Republican Governor of Georgia, and held many of the most prominent positions in the gift of the State. Georgia's list of high names would be incomplete without the name of Archibald Bulloch, planter, lawyer, statesman and soldier. Behold the list of honorable positions held by our ancestor, the son of our esteemed and honorable progenitor, Rev. James Bulloch, Esq., of Wormsloe, and Jean Stobo, our first American ancestor, who died in October, 1780, aged 78 years 7 months. In 1768 we find the name of Archibald Bulloch with other honorable names appointed to correspond with Benjamin Franklin on the affairs of the Province. Elected Speaker of the Assembly on the 21st April, 1772. On July 20, 1774, his name appears with those of Noble Wymberley Jones, John Hustoun and George Walton in the Gazette in a call for a meeting to sympathize with the Bostonians. He was elected a delegate to the Continental Congress 7th July, 1775, with Noble Wymberley Jones, John Hustoun, Dr. Zubly and Lyman Hall and took his seat. He was there also on the 9th November, 1775, and with others "pledged himself not to divulge anything which might take place in this Congress." See document in the Georgia Historical Society, a "Secret Declaration." We presume the subject of freeing the colonies was then discussed, and all must honor the members of that noble body of patriots, as well as those who signed the Declaration of Independence, for our ancestor was elected to the Congress of 4th of July, 1776, but could not attend owing to official duties at home. See letter from Hon. John Adams to Governor Bulloch in "Niles' Revolutionary Documents." See letter of Governor Bulloch to Provincial Congress in Stevens' History of Georgia. He was elected President of the Provincial Congress 4th July, 1775, and chosen again its President on the 22d February, 1776. On the 2d of February, 1776, he was elected by Congress as a delegate from Georgia to Continental Congress in company with the following named gentlemen: John Houstoun, Lyman Hall, Button Gwinnett, and George Walton. We find him taking his seat in Congress September 13, 1775, with Zubly, Hall and Houstoun. On the 15th April, 1776, Archibald Bulloch was elected President and Commander-in-Chief of Georgia. Bulloch county has the honor of bearing his name, and during the Revolution we find the galley, a war vessel, named the "Bulloch." We find him in command of a detachment of troops sent to Tybee to dislodge the invaders of our soil. He was noted for firmness, modesty and bravery, and had not official duties kept him at home his name would have been affixed to the Declaration of Independence. As it is he deserves the same honor, for his name is affixed to the document of 1775 as one of the signers of the Secret Congress, 9th of November, 1775. (Original document in the hands of Henry R. Jackson, Esquire). He was the first man who read the Declaration of Independence in Georgia.

Stobo.

The family of Stobo was undoubtedly of gentle blood and must have been of prominence in Scotland, judging by the coat-of-arms they bore, viz.: Two crosses, one in chief dexter, the other in chief sinister, between a chevron on which are placed two stars; below, in dexter base, a scimeter, crest a lion passant (granted probably by Richard Cœur de Leon for services in war of the crusades); also from the fact of there being a Parish and Castle of Stobo in Peebleshire, Scotland. Arms registered in Office of Lyon King at Arms, Scotland.

Rev. Archibald Stobo of Stobo Castle, had left Scotland with the Darien Colonists, the scheme proving a failure, he was returning to Scotland on man-of-war Rising Sun, which being caught in a gale, stopped off Charleston Harbor, coast of South Carolina. Rev. Archibald Stobo was invited up to City of Charleston to marry a couple, and, with some others, went in a small boat to the city and while there a gale arose and blew the vessel, on which they had been, to sea, when all on board perished except those who had gone to Charleston in the small boat. Rev. Archibald Stobo saved nothing but a small pocket Bible, now in possession of his descendants. He remained in South Carolina from 1700 to 1740, in which latter year he died. He assisted in establishing the first Presbytery and founded the Church at Pon Pon; was Minister to Circular Church, Willton Church, and was a landed proprietor and useful man in the Colony. He has left an exceedingly numerous progeny, who live this day in Georgia, Carolina, Florida and New York, also in England, in the persons of Capt. James D. Bulloch and family and Irvine S. Bulloch, who were born in Georgia, but after the late civil war remained in England.

IV. MARY E. PERRY.

V. STOBO R. PERRY.

I. RICHARD BEDON, eldest son of Elizabeth Stobo and Josiah Bedon, had—

1. JOSIAH BEDON.

2. RICHARD BEDON.

3. STOBO BEDON, married Mrs. Stewart and their daughter married R. Fuller.

VIII. JEAN² STOBO.

IX. MARY STOBO, married John Fraser.

X. JAMES STOBO, Jr., married and had issue.

1. — STOBO.

2. MORTON STOBO.

NOTE.—“The Rev. Edward J. Stobo of Quebec, Canada, says in a letter that the name Stobo is confined to three counties in Scotland—Lanark, Peebles and Dumfries; that he belongs to the Lanark section and a native of Glasgow. In Peebles there is a town of Stobo, Parish and Castle, and it is the opinion of Dr. Chalmers that the family took the name from the place. The etymology of Stobo being “Stob,” “hough” or “haugh,” low land with a palisade or fence. A “Stobie” person is one who is trustworthy. The western part of Glasgow, on River Clyde, is built upon the estate and is called Stob-Cross or Stobo’s Crossing. I can remember the old Mansion House, sold about 1760 by Major Robert Stobo, First Virginia Regiment. Major Robert Stobo was a gallant soldier and assisted in capturing Quebec, and was with Washington at the surrender of General Braddock.”

It seems that the Stobos of Carolina were then of the Peebleshire line, and, though related to others of the name, were a separate branch.

De Veaux.

The name De Vaux, from which we think the name of De Veaux originated, and, in fact, the name of De Veaux is frequently spelt De Vaux in old records in Georgia; is a noble name of Normandy, France, and several of the family of De Vaux have been noted men in France, also a Count De Vaux; and in Burke's Peerage we see that three brothers, Hubert, Ranulph and Philip De Vaux, sons of Harold De Vaux, Lord of Vaux, accompanied William the Conqueror to England and there became progenitors of many noble families. The De Veaux family of Georgia is an old and highly honorable one and embraces a wide connection in Carolina and Georgia with such families as Bellinger, Palmer, Barnwell, Guerard, Rutledge, Ashe and many others in Carolina, and in Georgia with Bulloch, Morel, Stephens, Guerard, also to the ancient family of Box, related to the McQueens, Rigbys of Harrock Hall, and Waldburgs. The members thereof of the name De Veaux have not been idle in contributing men to art, to war and to State affairs, and in Georgia siding with the Colony against the Mother Country. Among the men of note may be mentioned André De Veaux, the Huguenot; his son, James De Veaux, Commissioner of Roads, one of the Associate Justices of the King's Court in Georgia, member of Royal Assembly in 1761, on committee to see that fortifications be erected in different parishes, also on committee to see that churches be erected in different parishes, styled in old papers Hon. Colonel James De Veaux and member of Provincial Congress of 1775 to resist unjust oppression of the Mother Country. We may mention his sons, Peter De Veaux, a revolutionary soldier, aide to General Gates, and one who opportunely saved the life of James Jackson, afterward Governor Jackson, and John Milledge, afterward Governor Milledge, who by mistake had been arrested for spies. He was also Member of Legislature and Tax Collector of Chatham County, and William De Veaux, Collector of Beaufort in 1775, a large land-owner and planter, also Coroner in Georgia 1789 and Notary Public; nor can we leave out a Captain De Veaux at the siege of Savannah, whose grandson James was an artist of great promise; nor the celebrated Colonel Andrew De Veaux, son of Andrew De Veaux the third and Catharine Barnwell, though noted and brave, on the wrong side and a Tory.

The first De Veaux in America that we are acquainted with was André De Veaux, the Huguenot, earliest mention of him 1714, who was a large land-owner and planter in South Carolina in 1754. We find grants to him by Governor Craven in 1715; applies for Minister to French Church in 1731 and in 1754 makes his will as Andrew De Veaux of St. Andrew's Parish, Province of South Carolina, gentleman, leaving to his beloved sons, Andrew, James and John, property. To his grandson, Jacob, son of Israel De Veaux, deceased, he leaves £1,000 current money; leaves to granddaughters, Catherine and Annie, daughters of his son, Israel De Veaux, deceased, £1,000; to granddaughter Jeany, daughter of his son John, a young negro woman. André De Veaux,

Sr., married three times. By his first wife, whose name has not reached us, he had the following children:

I. ISRAEL DE VEAUX, married Elizabeth Martin March 1, 1738-39; died before 1754.

II. ANDREW DE VEAUX, married first, Hannah Palmer; secondly, Sarah Eberson.

III. JAMES DE VEAUX, married Annie Palmer, or Bellinger. Born 1710; died Nov. 10, 1785, age 75 years.

IV. JOHN DE VEAUX, married Sarah Sullivant. Born Feb. 25, 1737-8.

André De Veaux, Sr., married secondly in 1723 Ann Le Sade, daughter of Peter Le Sade and widow of Jean Girardeau. He married thirdly, Magdalen Juneau, Feb. 17, 1738, widow, and daughter of John Breton. Not known to have issue by last marriage. He seems to have planted and owned land successfully in Berkley County, Prince William's Parish, St. Andrew's Parish, Berkley County; also Granville County, South Carolina.

I. ISRAEL DE VEAUX, eldest son of André De Veaux, married March 1st, 1738-9 to Elizabeth Martin and had—

1. JACOB DE VEAUX, married Eliza Barnwell June 21, 1768.

2. ANN DE VEAUX, married James Aikins June 2, 1764.

3. CATHARINE DE VEAUX, married Nicholas Lechmere April 10, 1774.

I. JACOB DE VEAUX and Eliza Barnwell had—

1. CAROLINE DE VEAUX.

2. JACOB DE VEAUX.

3. ELIZA DE VEAUX, married Joseph Guerard.

4. HARRIET DE VEAUX, married Hon. Wm. Bellinger Bulloch April 27, 1798.

Eliza De Veaux married Joseph Guerard, son of John and Marianna (Godin) Guerard, and had, besides others,

I. Dr. JACOB DE VEAUX GUERARD, who married Alice Screven, (daughter of Dr. R. B. Screven and Alice Bedon, daughter of Josiah Bedon and Elizabeth Stobo, daughter of Richard Park Stobo and Mary Harvey, son of Rev. Archibald Stobo of Stobo Castle, and his wife, Elizabeth), had—

1. LUCIA GUERARD, married Dr. Thomas Cuthbert and had issue.

2. ELIZABETH MARTHA GUERARD, married George C. Heyward and had issue.

3. LOUISA GUERARD, married R. Chisolm and had issue.

4. ALICE GUERARD, married George Allen and had issue.

5. ANNA GUERARD, married first, Dr. Crowley; secondly, James Douglas Robinson.

CATHARINE BLAKE GUERARD, married first, C. J. Gadsden; secondly, Elliott Guerard.

7. MARY GODIN GUERARD, married Judge Hardaway.

II. ANDREW DE VEAUX, second son of André, Sr., married first, Hannah Palmer; (daughter of Col. John Palmer, who was killed at Fort Moosa, in Florida, and Elizabeth Bellinger, fourth child of Edmund Bellinger, first Landgrave) and had—

1. JOHN PALMER DE VEAUX, born Nov. 10, 1736.

2. ANDREW DE VEAUX, Jr., married March 24, 1757, to Catharine Barnwell, daughter of John and Martha Barnwell.

3. STEPHEN DE VEAUX, married Miss Gignilliat.

4. MARGARET DE VEAUX, married Thomas Rutledge.

Andrew De Veaux and Catharine Barnwell had—

1. Col. ANDREW DE VEAUX.
2. MARTHA DE VEAUX, born Sept. 9, 1763.
3. WILLIAM DE VEAUX, born Jan. 1, 1767.
4. HANNAH DE VEAUX, married Samuel Ashe July 14, 1785, and had—
 1. JOHN S. ASHE.
 2. SAMUEL ASHE.

Col. Andrew De Veaux, son of Andrew and Catharine (Barnwell) De Veaux, was born 30th of April, 1798, and married Ann Maria Verplanck and had—

1. — DE VEAUX, married Philip Verplanck.
2. — DE VEAUX, married John Hare Powell.

III. Hon. Col. JAMES DE VEAUX, Esq., of Shaftsbury, a large landed proprietor and Senior Judge of Kings Court in 1760; of Granville County, S. C., planter, Prince William's Parish, 1755; removed to Georgia in 1756; speaks in his will, 1775, on record in Court House, of lands on Salkehatchee of his father, and brother, Andrew. He owned Great Warsaw Island, Plantation of Shaftsbury, on Savannah River, and a place on Skidaway Island, and was an influential man and a patriot of the Revolution. He married Ann Palmer or Bellinger, daughter or granddaughter of Landgrave Edmund Bellinger, and had—

1. JAMES DE VEAUX, born Aug. 16, 1734.
2. ELIZABETH DE VEAUX, born Jan. 14, 1738.
3. ANN ELIZA DE VEAUX, born Feb. 1, 1742.
4. LUCY DE VEAUX, born April 15, 1737, died in Georgia 1757; and the following children concerning the families herein mentioned more especially:

1. WILLIAM DE VEAUX, born Sept. 28, 1740, married Ann Barnwell.

2. PETER DE VEAUX, married first, Mary Eleanor Box; secondly, Martha Box.

3. MARY DE VEAUX, married Gov. Archibald Bulloch.

4. MARGARET DE VEAUX, married Hon. William Stephens, (son or grandson of William Stephens, second President of the Colony of Georgia, after Oglethorpe, who married a daughter of Sir Richard Newdigate, son of Sir William Stephens, Knight, Lieutenant-Governor of the Isle of Wight.) Issue extinct.

1. WILLIAM DE VEAUX and Ann Barnwell had the following issue:

1. JAMES DE VEAUX.

2. WILLIAM FAIRCHILD DE VEAUX.

3. JOHN BERNERS DE VEAUX.

4. ANN DE VEAUX, married James Brown, M. D., and had James De Veaux Brown. She was married by Rev. Mr. Lewis Aug. 8, 1786; married secondly, Caroway Smith; thirdly, James Belcher.

5. MARY OLIVIA DE VEAUX.

6. SARAH MARTHA DE VEAUX, married first, June 7, 1796, James Alger; secondly, John H. Morel, and had a daughter, Emily Morel, who married Godin Guerard and had—

1. A. GUERARD, married Miss McKee and had issue.

2. SARAH GUERARD. married William Waring, M. D., and had issue.

3. ELIZABETH GUERARD, married Thomas Gadsden and had issue.

4. MARY GUERARD, married Jett Howard and had issue.

5. LOIS GUERARD, married first, Barron Carter and had issue; (secondly, John Henderson) and had—

1. JOHN CARTER.

2. BARRON CARTER.

6. R. GUERARD, married Miss Roberts and had issue.

II. Major PETER DE VEAUX, born Oct. 10, 1752, died Oct. 6, 1826, age 74 years, second son of Hon. James De Veaux, Esq., of Shaftsbury, and Annie Palmer or Bellinger, married first, Martha Box; secondly, Mary Eleanor Box, by Rev. Edward Ellington at seat of John Milledge, Esq., Pembroke, Aug. 26, 1795. These were daughters of the ancient family of Box, a family once in good condition. Philip Box, Esq., gentleman, member of Council of Safety and of Provincial Congress, married Miss Rigby, daughter of Noah Rigby, gentleman of Harrock Hall, England, and had—

1. CHARLES BOX.

2. THOMAS BOX.

3. MARTHA BOX, married Major Peter De Veaux and had issue,

I. MARY ELIZA DE VEAUX, born July 26, 1772.

II. ANN FAIRCHILD DE VEAUX, born Nov. 19, 1807, married Nov. 5, 1829, Charles C. Ashe of Georgetown, S. C.

III. MARGARET STEPHENS DE VEAUX, born June 9, 1806, married, by Rev. Mr. Bartow, to Thomas Netherclift Morel and had—

1. MARGARET MOREL, married Col. Johnson.

2. THOMAS MOREL.

3. JAMES MOREL.

IV. ELIZA SARAH DE VEAUX, born Oct. 8, 1798, married by Rev. Mr. Cranston in Savannah Monday, June 10, 1816, to John Morel and had—

1. CHARLOTTE MOREL, married Mr. Fagan.
2. ANN MOREL, married Mr. Johnson.
3. JULIA MOREL, married Mr. Hicks.

IV. *JOHN DE VEAUX, fourth son of André De Veaux, married Feb. 25, 1737, Sarah Sullivant and had—

1. JOHN DE VEAUX, born Indian Land Dec. 23, 1739.
2. ANDREW DE VEAUX, married Mary —.
3. JEANY DE VEAUX.

II. ANDREW DE VEAUX and Mary — had—

1. ANDREW DE VEAUX, born in St. Thomas Parish June 18, 1765.

2. JOHN DE VEAUX, born July 15, 1767.

We think John moved to Georgia, too, with his brother, James, as there was a John De Veaux, one of the Commissioners of Roads in the Colony of Georgia.

NOTE.—All the married De Veaux left issue. William, the only son, never married.

NOTE.—One of the above family married a Delegal and had Sophia De Veaux. To this branch belongs, we think, the De Veaux of Beaufort, also John Porteous De Veaux and John De Veaux, of Charleston; also the De Veaux of Edisto Island, though not sure.

We have not attempted to follow out the line of Stephen De Veaux and Miss Gignilliat, which embraces the families of Porcher, Marion, Singleton, Du Bose, Ravenel and a great many of the Santee people; nor of the Rutledge De Veaux branch, nor of all the numerous issue of Guerard and De Veaux, which embraces the Heywards, Outhberts, Allens, Chisholms and many others, but hope the labor so far undertaken will lead some one to perfect the work.

1776—Col. Andrew DeVeaux was a son of Andrew DeVeaux & Miss Barnwell. He was noted in boyhood for his mischievous pranks and afterwards for reckless exploits. He was a youth at Revol'n. A family quarrel (according to Johnson) drove him to the British side. He collected a party of young men & raided & burnt Sheldon Church & then joined Provost's expedition. He was taken prisoner but escaped & fought thro' the war. In 1782 he was in Florida with his dragoons & raising a force there & getting 6 small vessels, he captured the Bahama Islands. For this brilliant exploit he was made a Colonel. He went to England after the war and his handsome dashing style & fine horsemanship made quite a sensation—much like a gentlemanly "Buffalo Bill." He returned to America & m'd Miss Verplank of N. Y. & had 2 daus. One m'd Col. Hare Powell and one Mr. Verplank. He ran thro' his property & his wife's and died in poverty. See Johnson Trad's Rev'n, p. 174 &c.

Irvine.

The name of Irwin, Irwyn or Irvine appears to have been of long standing in the South and Southwest of Scotland. A member of the family early acquired the lands of Bonshaw in Dumfriesshire, which his descendants still possess, and when Robert Bruce took the field against Edward I. for the Crown of Scotland he appointed William De Irwin of that line (but whether its chief or not has not been ascertained) his armor bearer; gave him his own device or arms when Earl of Carrick, viz., three holly leaves, and made him a grant by charter under the great seal of the Forest of Drom or Drum in Aberdeenshire. He was succeeded by his son, Alexander Irvine, of Drum, who married the second daughter of Sir Robert Keith, Great Marishall, and his wife, Margaret, daughter of Sir Gilbert Hay, Lord High Constable of Scotland, and was succeeded by his son, Alexander Irvine, of Drum, who was commander of the Lowland forces at the battle of Harlaw, anno 1411, where he and M'Lean of Dowart, the ancestor of Coll, having fought together, were both killed. M'Lean was Lieutenant-General under Donald of the Isles. Alexander Irvine of Drum was succeeded by his brother, who changed his Christian name upon inheriting, a precedent for which alteration being established by King Robert III., whose baptismal name was John. This Laird of Drum was one of the Commissioners deputed by the States of Scotland to treat concerning the ransom of James I. and was knighted by that Monarch in 1424. He married the widow of his brother, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Robert Keith, Great Marshal of Scotland, and by her acquired the lands of Strachan, and also in 1446, by charter under the great seal in 1446, the lands of Learny, by resignation of John Halyburton. Sir Alexander Irvine had two sons:

1. ALEXANDER IRVINE.

2. — IRVINE, of Beltie, from whom the Irvines of Lenturck and the Irvines of Germany descend.

Alexander Irvine of Drum, eldest son of Sir Alexander Irvine, married Abernethy, daughter of the Lord Saltoun, and was succeeded by his son, Alexander Irvine, who married first, Elizabeth, third daughter of Alexander, Lord Forbes, and had, with a daughter, married to Leslie of Wardhouse, three sons:

1. ALEXANDER IRVINE.

2. RICHARD IRVINE, from whom descend the Irvines of Hilltoun.

3. HENRY IRVINE, from whom descend the Irvines of Kingcausie.

He married secondly, a Lindsay and had eight daughters, seven married; the eldest to Coutts of Westercourt, second to Chalmers of Strichen, third to Skene of that ilk, fourth to Ogston of Fettercairn, fifth to Ross of Auchlossen, sixth to Crawford of Fornet, seventh to Duguid of Auchenuive.

Alexander Irvine of Drum, eldest son of Alexander Irvine and Elizabeth Forbes, married Janet, only daughter of Allardyce of that ilk and had, with two daughters, the elder married to the Laird of Balbigno, the younger to Fraser of Murchels, predecessor of Lord Fraser, a son and heir, living in 1527. He married Elizabeth Ogilvie, daughter of the Laird of Findlater, and falling at the battle of Pinkie, anno 1547, his father, then living, left six sons and three daughters, viz.:

1. ALEXANDER, successor to his grandfather.
2. WILLIAM, of Ardlogie.
3. ROBERT, of Tillylan, from whom the Irvines of Fortie descend.
4. GILBERT, of Colairlie, predecessor of Murthill and Cults.
5. JAMES, a Knight of Malta, ordained by Grand Master Prior of the order in Scotland.
6. JOHN.
7. JANET, married Gordon of Abergeldie.
8. ELIZABETH. married Seyton of Meldrum.
9. MARGARET, married Cheyne of Arnage.

Descent of the Irvines of Cults.

We learn from Nisbet, in his Heraldry, that Alexander Irvine of Drum, who married Elizabeth Ogilvie, daughter of the Laird of Findlater, left six sons, the *third of whom, Gilbert Irvine of Colairlie, left three sons, of whom the youngest was John Irvine of Murthill, ancestor of the Irvines of Murthill and Cults. Nisbet further gives the armorial bearings of both families as granted at the Lyon office, which for John Irvine of Murthill is as follows: On a white field, a sheaf of arrows red between three holly branches each consisting of as many leaves, green fastened by a red band, the motto being, Sub Sole, Sub Umbra Crescens. Mr. Robert Irvine of Bielside, the second lawful son of Mr. John Irvine of Murthill, descended of a third son of Drum, bears as his arms, viz.: A sheaf of arrows red on a white field, between three holly branches, each consisting of as many leaves, green banded together red, all within a green border; crest, three holly leaves, conjoined on one stalk green. Motto: Moderatur durant.

*NOTE.—Burke says fourth son.

Mr. Robert Irvine, second son of John Irvine of Murt-hill, was infeft of the lands of Bieldside 3d May, 1676, and in Cults, a neighboring property, 25th May, 1680.

It would seem that Mr. Robert Irvine married twice, the first time to a near relative, and had by her, Jean Irvine, three children:

ALEXANDER IRVINE of Cults, who went abroad 31st January, 1697, and on April 18, 1701, was a major in Douglass' Regiment. Also ISOBEL IRVINE, who was married at Cults House 16th April, 1695, to Robert Donaldson, and was mother of Dr. James Donaldson and grandmother of Dr. Alexander Donaldson, both professors of medicine in Marischall College.

Another daughter of Cults' family is mentioned in the History of the Family of Skene as a daughter of Robert Irvine of Cults and third wife of Robert Skene of West-ercourse and Ramore. Isobel Irvine (Mrs Donaldson) must have been her sister.

The following inscription was taken from the Irvine tomb at Peter Culter Church by A. Dingwall Fordyce, Esq., latterly of Fergus, Ontario, Canada:

“Here lyeth Jean Irvine spouse to Maister Robert Irvine of Cults in hops of a blisshed resurrection, who departed this life the 21 of March 1678 the 32 year of her age, also Robert Irvine Esq. died the 10 of April 1728, age 89 years. Likewise his second wife Mary Coutts who died in 1710, aged 45 years, and Charles Irvine Esq'r who died the 28 of March 1779, aged 83 years—and Euphemia Douglass his spouse who died the 21 of Dece'r 1766, aged 55 years.”

Arms of Irvine over inscription.

We see from the foregoing that the Irvines of Cults descend from Gilbert Irvine of Colairlie, a third son of Drum, and that each branch bears the original coat-of-arms, with a slight difference to distinguish one branch from the other. By a second marriage Robert Irvine of Cults married Mary Coutts and had—

CHARLES IRVINE, Esq., who in 1733 married Euphemia Douglass, daughter of John Douglass, Laird of Tilwhilly and Inchmarlo, who married, in 1700, Agnes Horn, daughter of Mr. James Horn of Westhall, formerly Minister of Elgin, and Isobel Leslie, daughter of John Leslie of Pitcapel. By this marriage of Charles Irvine and Euphemia Douglass they had issue—

1. JOHN IRVINE, M. D.
2. ROBERT IRVINE.
3. MARGARET IRVINE, married John Fordyce of Ardo.
4. ——— IRVINE, married Burnet of Caskieben.
5. ——— IRVINE.

*John Irvine, M. D., son of Charles and Euphemia (Douglass) Irvine was born Sept. 15 (O. S.) 1742 and moved to Georgia before the Revolutionary War, where, as a physician and prominent citizen, he was much respected. On the breaking out of the trouble between the Colonies and Great Britain Dr. Irvine remained loyal to the latter and returned to the old country and for a while practiced medicine in London, where he met his kinsman, the Laird of Drum. It is said that Dr. Irvine became physician to King George III. and afterward physician to Admiralty. In 1798 he was at Vigo lane in the liberty of Westminster, Parish or County of Middlesex. He returned to America and became one of the founders of the Georgia Medical Society, founded in 1804, and its first Vice-President, afterward its President, and died on Saturday, Oct. 15, 1808, aged 66 years; revered and respected by all as a physician, man and friend.

*NOTE.—Born on family estate of Cults, we suppose, near Aberdeen, Scotland.

He married in 1765 Ann Elizabeth Baillie, daughter of Captain Kenneth Baillie*, of a distinguished and ancient Scotch family, of the Baliol blood, and a descendant of the Leytons of Leyton, Lord Hamilton of Cadzow and of the renowned Wallace, all through the family and line of Sir William Baillie of Hoperig and Lammington.

John Irvine was born in Scotland, near Aberdeen, on the family estate of Cults (we presume) on September 15th (O. S.) 1742 and died October 15th, 1808. He married Ann Elizabeth Baillie about 1765, who was born September 27th (O. S.) 1749 and died July 23d, 1807. Their children were:

†I. CHARLES IRVINE, born July 22, 1766, married and left issue. Died Nov. 30, 1803.

II. EUPHEMIA IRVINE, born March 14, 1768. Died July 14, 1768,

III. ANNE IRVINE, born Jan. 14, 1770, married James Bulloch April 13, 1786, and left issue.

IV. ROBERT IRVINE, born Jan. 4, 1772. Died soon after.

V. ROBERT IRVINE, born Feb. 15, 1773. Died Nov. 17, 1773.

VI. JANE IRVINE, born Jan. 15, 1775, married first, Alexander Farquharson of Scotland; secondly, James Smith.

*NOTE.—One of the Trustees of the town of Sunbury, Liberty County, Georgia, and a prominent citizen of the country.

†NOTE.—Charles Irvine married and had issue, but don't know what has become of his descendants. One of the names of one of the plantation was Dunane.

VII. MARGARET IRVINE, born Feb. 23, 1777, married George Ladson Dec. 7, 1809. Died July 26, 1813.

VIII. JOHN IRVINE, born May 8, 1779. Died Aug. 30, 1781.

IX. ALEXANDER IRVINE, born at Cattle Park, near Savannah, Ga., July 4, 1781, married Sarah Ann Wingate June 19, 1806.

X. KENNETH IRVINE, born Dec. 3, 1783, married June 21, 1804. Died Nov. 16, 1814.

XI. ELIZABETH IRVINE, born Jan. 18, 1786, married first, Thomas Baillie, Dec. 17, 1805; secondly, Mr. Powell, June 23, 1813.

XII. SOPHIA IRVINE, born Nov. 26, 1787, married William Evans Jan. 6, 1803. Died Feb. 19, 1857.

XIII. ISABEL IRVINE, born July 1, 1791, married July 13, 1809, Mr. Cuthbert. Died Nov. 2, 1812.

Dr. John Irvine married a second time Miss Elizabeth Johnston, daughter of the Hon. Lewis Johnston, Esq., formerly one of His Majesty's Council of the Province of Georgia, his partner in the practice of medicine in Savannah and his revered and long-lamented friend. Miss Elizabeth Johnston was married to Dr. Irvine April 25, 1808. She was born in Savannah Nov. 7, 1761.

IX. ALEXANDER IRVINE, ninth child, married Sarah Ann Wingate, granddaughter of Governor Carswell of North Carolina, June 16, 1806, and had issue,

Letter from Alexander Irvine, Esq., of Drum Castle:

ABERDEEN, 16th Nov., 1831.

DEAR SIR—I met yesterday Mr. Fordyce in the coach going to Mrs. Gordon's funeral in the old town. He said he had seen you, but that you had left at home the answer to his queries. We had some conversation about the Irvines of Cults, and I am not sure if I expressed myself accurately when talking of the Drum entail. I perhaps may have said that the Irvines of Cults were next in the entail after my family, but I should have called it our Artamford branch, for failing my sons and their heirs male, they are male heirs of younger brothers of my grandfather, who come before those of Cults. I do not exactly know the state of the family of Cults at present. The late Irvine of Cults had two sons and three daughters. One of the sons, Robert, died, unmarried, in London many years ago. The other (John, I think), had been settled in Georgia as a medical man, practiced in London some years where I was acquainted with him, when he had a family, if I recollect well, of sons and daughters. I am not sure of his death, but suppose he died either in England or America. His family went out again, and I think I have heard that his son married in America. One of the daughters of old Cults (who sold the estate) married Mr. Fordyce of Ardo, and her daughters can inform Mrs. Fordyce regarding her uncle's family. Another married Mr. Burnett, late of Caskieben. Be so good as to show this to Mr. Fordyce. I am, dear sir, yours truly,

ALEXANDER IRVINE.

Irvine of Kingcausie was a branch of the Drum family, but not in the entail.

To Rev. ADAM CORLET, Parish Minister of Drum.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF DR. JOHN IRVINE.

Dr. John Irvine was born in Scotland and came to Georgia before the Revolution, where he practiced his profession. He was a royalist. We find his name as one dissenting to certain resolutions passed August 10, 1774 with others, showing that he was determined to stick to what he considered right; also a member of the last Royal Assembly held by Sir James Wright in 1780. He represented Midway and St. Johns, now Liberty County, so that he resided both in Savannah and at Sunbury, where he had property. See White's Statistics, p. 49, and Stevens' History of Georgia, p. 319. Being obliged to leave Georgia and going to England, his connection, the celebrated Dr. Mathew Baillie's (nephew of the renowned Hunters, Sir William and John) health not being good, asked permission of the Sovereign King George to put some one in his place as King's physician, when Dr. John Irvine was appointed or received as His Majesty's physician. He was subsequently physician to the Admiralty. He was in Vigo Lane, Parish of St. James, in the liberty of Westminster, County of Middlesex, on Sept. 24, 1795. After the struggle he returned to Georgia and was made Vice-President of the Georgia Medical Society, being one of its founders and incorporators. He died in 1808, while President of the Georgia Medical Society.

Douglass,

Douglass of Telquhillie.

Where are now the descendants of Croesus, Scipio, Hannibal, Alexander and many of the world's heroes gone? But the illustrious race of Douglass still flourishes. It is related that in the time of Solvathius, son to Eugenius (767), King of Scotland, a certain Donald of the Hebrides, called Donald Bane, invaded the country of the King and in a terrific battle the enemy was about to gain the ascendancy and win the day when a certain chief of the Brigantines turned the tide of battle and won the day, thus saving the country from the foreign foe, and upon inquiry by the King as to who had been instrumental in achieving the result, the chief of the Brigantines was pointed out to the King by the following expression, "Sholto du Glasse," which means, "Behold yonder gray-haired black man," and from that day the chief ordered all of his followers to assume the name of Douglass. This ancient race, renowned in war, powerful by its alliances to royalty and nobility as well as its large possessions, was among the great barons and has ranked among the nobility for centuries. One of the earliest of this great and powerful race was Archibald De Douglass, who married a daughter of and co-heir of Sir John Crawford of Crawford, son of John De Crawford, son of Galfridus, son of Dominus or Lord Galfridus De Crawford, who was the son of Alan, fourth and youngest son of the Earl of Richmond, a scion of the royal blood. Archibald De Douglas had a son by this marriage, Andrew De Douglas, who was his third son and ancestor of the noble House of Dalkeith. His son was Sir James De Douglas, who had a son, Sir John Douglas, who married Agnes Monfode and had Sir James Douglas, who married Agnes Dunbar, daughter of the Earl of March, who had James Douglas, and another son who was the ancestor of Sir George Douglas, the deliverer of Mary Queen of Scots from Lochleven Castle. James Douglass became the first Lord of Dalkeith and, inheriting the estates of his uncle, Sir William Douglas, the Knight of Liddesdale, became a powerful baron. He married the Princess Elizabeth, daughter of Robert III., and had James Douglass, the second Lord of Dalkeith, who married Agnes Keith, daughter of the Earl Marshall, and had three sons.

1. JAMES DOUGLASS, Earl of Morton.
2. Sir JOHN DOUGLASS.
3. WILLIAM DOUGLASS, of Lochleven.

Sir John Douglass, brother to the first Earl of Morton, married the heiress of Hawthornden and had two sons, the younger of whom, David Douglass, acquired the lands of Tilquhillie or Tilwhilly, in Kincardineshire, through his wife, Janet Ogston (1479), second daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Ogston of Kirklands, of Fettercairn. They had a son, James Douglass, who married Christian Forbes, of the family of Tolquhon, and had Arthur Douglass, who succeeded his grandmother, Janet Ogston, in 1535, renouncing in his favor Tilwhilly and other lands in the parish of Banchory. He married Janet Auchenleck, daughter of the Laird of Balmanno, and had two sons, John and Archibald, the younger of whom was Constable of the Castle of Edinburgh during the Earl of Morton's regency.

John Douglass, the elder son of Arthur Douglass of Tilwhilly and Janet Auchenleck, succeeded and married in 1576 Giles or Egidia Erskine, daughter of Robert Erskine, Fiar of Dun, and Catharine Graham of Morphie. Her grandfather, John Erskine of Dun, the friend of Knox, and Superintendent of Angus and Mearns under the reformed system of religion, died in 1591, in which year William, Earl of Morton, was appointed curator or guardian to the young Laird of Tilwhilly, the son of John Douglass and Giles Erskine, who had another son, Alexander, and two daughters; one married to Patrick Graham of Morphie, the other to William Wood of Balbegno. John Douglass of Tilwhilly, elder son of John Douglass and Giles Erskine, was married in 1594 to Mary Young, eldest daughter of Sir Peter Young of Seaton and his wife, Elizabeth Gib. As she was one of the Maids of Honor to Anne of Denmark, Queen of King James VI., she was married at Hollyrood House. Elizabeth Gib was the daughter of Robert Gib, Laird of Caribber.

John Douglass and Mary Young had seven sons. The three younger sons, Francis, William and Peter, died unmarried. John, the eldest, led a military life; so did the next two, Archibald and Robert. The fourth son, James Douglass, founded the Inchmarlo branch and eventually succeeded to Tilwhilly. There were three daughters: Ann, married to William Leask, of that ilk; Mary, to Gilbert Garden, apparent of Tellefroskie, and Elizabeth, to William Troup of Balnacraig.

John, the eldest son, married Agnes Barclay and was killed in battle, leaving two daughters, one of whom married a Major Sinclair; the other, Ann, married to James Hogg of Bleridryne. The next son, Sir Archibald Douglass, married Eleanor Touchet, daughter of Lord Audley, but had no issue. The next brother, Sir Robert Douglass, third son of John Douglass and Mary Young, succeeded to Tilwhilly and was in 1647 served heir to his father and two brothers. Sir Robert was married twice. First, to Margaret Udward, widow of William Forbes of Craigievar and daughter of the Provost of Edinburgh; secondly, to Elizabeth Burnet, daughter of Sir Robert Burnet of Leys. By the latter lady Sir Robert had a son, Robert, and a daughter, Jean, married in 1665 to George Crichton of Cluny. Robert, the only son of Sir Robert Douglass of Tilwhilly and Elizabeth Burnet, married a Miss Innes, of the family of Reidhall, in Morayshire, one of whose sisters has been mentioned as the wife of Governor Pitt. The other married to Mr. John Wemyss, brother of the Earl of Wemyss.

Gilbert Douglass, only son of Robert Douglass and Miss Innes, was a solicitor in Parliament and member for an English borough. He died unmarried in 1758, when the representation of the Tilwhilly family devolved on the Inchmarlo branch.

James Douglass, the fourth son of John Douglass of Tilwhilly and Mary Young, acquired the lands of Inchmarlo in the parish of Banchory with his patrimony. He married Isobel Ramsay, daughter of David Ramsay, son of Sir John Ramsay of Balmain*, and died in 1672, leaving four sons and a daughter, Grizel Douglass, who married Mr. John Leslie of Middletown (now Findrassie), Minister of the Parish of Rothies. The children were—

1. JOHN DOUGLASS.
2. DAVID DOUGLASS.
3. ARCHIBALD DOUGLASS, Minister of Salton and grandfather of the Bishop of Saulsbury.
4. ALEXANDER DOUGLASS, Professor of Hebrew in the University of Edinburgh.

John Douglass of Tilwhilly and Inchmarlo, eldest son of James Douglass and Isobel Ramsay, succeeded to Inchmarlo in 1672, on his father's death, and in 1684 recovered Tilwhilly from the creditors of his uncle, Sir Robert Douglass. He died in 1723, having been twice married—first, to Grizel Forbes, daughter of Thomas Forbes of Waterton and Jean Ramsay, daughter of David Ramsay of Balmain, sister of Isobel Ramsay, married to Douglass, and secondly to Euphemia Butler, an English lady. By his first wife he had two sons and four daughters. Three daughters died young; the other married in 1690 to Joseph Brodie of Milton.

The eldest son, James, was disinherited by his father, the second son, John, succeeding to estates.

John Douglass of Tilwhilly and Inchmarlo, second son of John Douglass and Grizell Forbes, was born in 1676 and succeeded his father in 1723 and died in 1749.

*NOTE.—Created Lord Bothwell.

He married Agnes Horn, daughter of Mr. James Horn of Westhall, formerly Minister of Elgin. They had one son and three daughters—Isobel, married in 1728 to James McKenzie of Dalmoir; Euphemia Douglass, born 1710, married to Charles Irvine of Cults in 1733, and Ann, married to Mr. James Chalmers, Minister of Daviot. Euphemia Douglass died 1766.

Charles Irvine and Euphemia Douglass had issue—

I. JOHN IRVINE, M. D., married Ann Elizabeth Baillie.

II. ROBERT IRVINE, died unmarried.

III. MARGARET IRVINE, married John Fordyce of Ardo.

IV. ——— IRVINE, married Burnet of Caskieben.

V. ——— IRVINE.

John Irvine and Ann Elizabeth Baillie, his wife, had issue—

I. CHARLES IRVINE, married and had issue.

II. EUPHEMIA IRVINE.

III. ANN IRVINE, married James Bulloch, eldest son of Gov. Archibald Bulloch and Mary De Veaux and had issue.

IV. ROBERT IRVINE.

V. ROBERT IRVINE.

VI. JANE IRVINE, married first, Mr. Farquharsen; secondly, James Smith.

VII. MARGARET IRVINE, married George Ladson.

VIII. JOHN IRVINE.

*IX. ALEXANDER IRVINE, married Sarah Ann Wingate.

†X. KENNETH IRVINE.

XI. ELIZABETH IRVINE.

*NOTE.—Alexander Irvine was Clerk Mayor's Court, Deputy Collector of Port and naval officer.

†Kenneth Irvine was naval officer.

XII. SOPHIA IRVINE, married William Evans.

XIII. ISOBEL IRVINE, married Mr. Cuthbert.

John Douglass of Tilwhilly and Inchmarlo, only son of John Douglass and Agnes Horn, was born in 1708, succeeded his father in 1749 and married to Mary Arbuthnott in 1736, who was sister to John, sixth Viscount Arbuthnott, and daughter of the Hon. John Arbuthnott of Fordon and his wife, Margaret Falconer. They had two sons and three daughters; the eldest, Margaret, married in 1767 to William Young of Sheddocksley, Provost of Aberdeen; Agnes, died unmarried; and Elizabeth Douglass, married in 1780 to Alexander Dingwall.

The younger son, James, born in 1742, died young.

Elizabeth Douglass was born Aug. 14, 1746.

Elizabeth Douglass and Alexander Dingwall, her husband, had issue—

I. WILLIAM DINGWALL.

II. MARY DINGWALL.

III. JEAN DINGWALL.

IV. JOHN DINGWALL.

V. ELIZABETH DINGWALL.

VI. AGNES DINGWALL, married Rev. Robert Doig and died without issue.

VII. MAGDALEN DINGWALL, married Alexander Dingwall Fordyce, her cousin-german and son of Dr. Arthur Dingwall Fordyce of Culsh and Janet Morrison, his wife, and had issue—

1. ARTHUR DINGWALL FORDYCE.

2. ALEXANDER DINGWALL FORDYCE.

3. ELIZABETH DINGWALL FORDYCE.

4. CHARLOTTE DINGWALL FORDYCE.

5. WILLIAM DINGWALL FORDYCE.

6. AGNES DINGWALL FORDYCE.

7. JAMES MORRISON DINGWALL FORDYCE.

8. JANET DINGWALL FORDYCE, married Alexander Drysdale and had issue.

9. MARY ARBUTHNOTT DINGWALL FORDYCE, married Alexander Shirrefs Cadenhead and had issue.

10. MAGDALENE DINGWALL FORDYCE, married May 31, 1850, Alexander David Ferrier and had issue.

John Douglass, younger, of Tilwhilly, advocate, eldest son of John Douglass and Mary Arbuthnott, was born in 1737, but died in his father's lifetime, in 1773. He married, in 1770, Hannah, daughter of Sir George Colquhoun, of Tilly Colquhoun, Baronet, who survived him many years. Théy had two sons. John, his grandfather's heir, succeeded him in 1791. His son John married Jane Kennedy and had, beside others, John Sholto Douglass, who married Vanda de Poellnitz, daughter of Baron Ernest de Poellnitz and the Hon. Isabella Drummond Forbes, daughter of Lord Forbes, and had issue, John Douglass of Tilwhilly and Invery.

THE DOUGLASSES OF TILWHILLY AND THEIR NOBLE DESCENT AND HONORABLE FAMILY CONNECTION.

The Lords of Dalkeith were of the ancient family of Douglass, and a most powerful and influential branch of the far-famed race of Douglas. Beside their intermarriages with the nobility of Scotland and with royalty, they were most noble themselves, and from them direct spring the Douglasses of Tilwhilly, Scotch Lairds of Til-whilly and Inchmarlo, a branch well-known in Scotland, and themselves marrying into the nobility and gentry of the kingdom, and into families of royal descent. The first of the family of Dalkeith was Archibald De Douglass, himself a lineal offshoot of the original Douglas race. He married Margaret Crawford, of that ancient line, and had Andrew De Douglass, who had Sir John Douglass, who married Agnes Monfode, of ancient descent. They had Sir James Douglass, who married Agnes Dunbar, daughter of the Earl of March, who had James Douglass, Lord of Dalkeith, who married the Princess Elizabeth, daughter of Robert III. They had James Douglass, Lord of Dalkeith, who married Agnes Keith, daughter of the Earl Marshal, who had—

I. JAMES DOUGLASS, Lord Dalkeith and first Earl of Morton.

II. SIR JOHN DOUGLASS.

III. WILLIAM DOUGLASS, of Lochleven.

Sir John Douglass, second son of James Douglass, second Lord of Dalkeith, and Agnes Keith, daughter of the Earl Marshal, married the heiress of Hawthornden, of the Abernethy family, and had Gilbert Douglass, who married Janet Ogston, of that ancient line, and had James Douglass, who, through his mother, Janet Ogston, thus became proprietor of Tilwhilly, or Tilquihillie, and had James Douglass, who married Christian Forbes, of the ancient and noble family of Forbes of Tolquohon, a family closely connected with royalty and with many of the ancient and noble families of the kingdom, such as the Prestons, Thaness of Formartin, the Strattons, Hay of Dalgetty, the family of Lord Forbes, which brings in the royal descent from Robert II., and the Earl of Angus and Earl Marshal ; also with the Leiths, Lairds of Barnes, Gordons of Lismore, Ogilvies of Dunlugas, etc.

James Douglass and Christian Forbes had Arthur Douglass, who married Janet Auchenleck, of that noted family, and had John Douglass, who married Egidia Erskine, daughter of Robert Erskine, Fiar of Dun, son of John Erskine of Dun, who married Elizabeth Lindsay, daughter of the Earl of Crawford. The Erskines of Dun are a younger branch of the family of the Earl of Mar and trace their descent through the Sir John Erskine who married Margaret Ruthven (daughter of William, Lord Ruthven), who was Dowager Countess of Buchan, and thus backward to John Erskine, who married Catherine Monypenny, of ancient stock, to his father, John Erskine, who married Marjory Graham of Fintry, a lady of royal blood, and thus backward to Alexander Erskine and John Erskine, Lord of Dun, son of Sir Thomas Erskine, who married Janet Barclay, daughter of Sir David Barclay by Christian Menteith, daughter of Sir John Menteith, who married Eleyne, daughter of Gratney, Earl of Mar, who married Christian Bruce, sister of King Robert, and thus the Erskines of Dun became of royal descent. John Douglass and Egidia Erskine had John Douglass, who married Mary Young, daughter of Sir Peter Young, of the family of Young, descendants of the noble family of Scrymgeour. They had James Douglass, who married Isobel Ramsay, daughter of David Ramsay of Balmain and Margaret Ogilvie, daughter of Sir Gilbert Ogilvie. David Ramsay of Balmain was the son, or descendant, of Sir John Ramsay, created Lord Bothwell. David Ramsay and Margaret Ogilvie had, beside Isobel, Jean Ramsay, married to Thomas Forbes of Watertown, and Agnes Ramsay, married to John Leslie of Pitcapel. James Douglass and Isobel Ramsay had John Douglass, who married Grizel Forbes, daughter of Thomas Forbes of Watertown and Jean Ramsay, as per above. The Forbes of Watertown are descendants of the Forbes of Tolquohon. John Douglass and Grizel Forbes had John Douglass, who married Agnes Horn, daughter of James Horn of Westhall and Isobel Leslie, daughter of John Leslie of Pitcapel and Agnes Ramsay, as per above. The Horns were of honorable and ancient descent, as were the family of John Leslie, who himself was a commander of note who fell fighting for Charles II. at the battle of Worcester. John Douglass and Agnes Horn, beside others, had Euphemia Douglass, who, in 1733, married Charles Irvine of Cults, son of Robert Irvine and Mary Coutts, a descendant of the ancient and noble and royally-descended Irvines of Drum, whose descent from the Keiths, Great Marshals of Scotland, the noble family of Hay, the Lords Forbes and Saltoun, and Allardyces and Ogilvies is well-known. Euphemia Douglass and Charles Irvine, beside others, had Dr. John Irvine, who married Ann Elizabeth Baillie, and, beside a numerous issue, had Ann Irvine, the third child and eldest daughter, who married James Bulloch and had—

I. JOHN IRVINE BULLOCH.

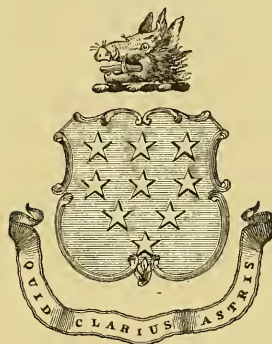

II. JAMES STEPHENS BULLOCH, and

III. JANE BULLOCH.

Thus one sees plainly the descent of the Bulloch from the Irvine and Douglass race.

NOTE.—For a more detailed account of the Irvines refer to Burke's Landed Gentry, and for the descent of Douglass of Tilwhilly and all the issue, see history of that line, also Burke's General Army and Peerage, Records of Dingwall Fordyce in Georgia Historical Library, and other portions of this work for all the descendants of these two families.

Baillie.

There is some dispute whether the name Baliol and Baillie are merely varieties of each other or distinct names; whether the Baliols came over with William the Conqueror or in the reign of William Rufus.

In the list of the companions of William the Conqueror the name of Guillaume Belet occurs; also that of Renaud de Bailleul, and the name De Bailleul, and in the Role of Battle Abbey the names Bailif and Bellet occur.

There seems to be little doubt that their position was greatly augmented in the reign of William Rufus, 1087–1100, for in this reign we find Guy de Baliol, who had a grant from the Crown of the Barony of Biweld, in County of Northumberland. He was succeeded by his son, Barnard de Baliol, a military commander of reputation. He fought at the Battle of the Standard, 1138, in which King Stephen of England gained a victory over King David of Scotland. He seems to have been an eminent man and baron of his day and time and is supposed to have been the founder of Barnard Castle on Bank of the Tees. He married Agnes de Pinchein and had Eustace de Baliol, who had, besides others, Hugh, his successor, who succeeded to the Barony of Biweld and had the Lordship of Hiche, in Essex, granted him by Henry II. He was a warrior of note and had—

1. JOHN DE BALIOL, founder of Baliol College, ancestor of King Baliol and II. Alexander Baliol or de Balliolo, who was said to have been the proprietor of Hoprig, but Nisbet, in his heraldry, says: The first proprietor of Hoprig or Penton was Sir John Baillio, one of those that met at Berwick in 1292 with King Edward I. of England to hear the claims of the competitors for the Crown of Scotland.

This Sir John Baillie married and had a son, William de Balliolo, otherwise Sir William Baillie of Hoprig, who married the only daughter and child of the renowned and celebrated Sir William Wallace, son of Sir Malcolm Wallace of Eldersly. Sir William Wallace had married, at Lanark Church, Marion Braidfoot, a ward of the Crown and heiress of Lammington.

Sir William Baillie and Marion Wallace, daughter of Sir William Wallace, had a son, Sir William Baillie, a great favorite of King David II., who preferred to adhere to the side of the Scottish King rather than to his near kinsman, Edward Baliol, who became King of Scotland, for which King David, when he gained the crown, rewarded Sir William Baillie highly.

Sir William married Isabel, daughter of Sir William Leyton of Leyton, ancestor of the Earls of Winton, and had a son, Sir William Baillie, who seems to have had large grants of lands, and is designated Dominus de Hoprig. Sir William Baillie married Catharine, daughter of Sir John Hamilton of Cadzow, of the ancient and distinguished and noble family of Hamilton, and had two sons and two daughters.

1. WILLIAM BAILLIE, his successor.

2. ALEXANDER BAILLIE, of whom were descended the families of Carnbrow and Carfin.

3. MARGARET BAILLIE, who married John, Earl of Sunderland, and had a son, John, from whom descend the family of Sunderland,

4. MARION BAILLIE, married to John, third Lord of Somerville.

Sir William Baillie of Lammington, son of the preceding proprietor, was a great favorite of James III. of Scotland and was a prominent gentleman of his day. He married Marion, daughter of Sir Patrick Hume of Polwarth, a son or descendant of Hume of Wedderburn. They had *four sons and two daughters—

1. ANDREW BAILLIE, his successor.

2. RICHARD BAILLIE, ancestor of Baillies of Bagbie.

3. SIBELLA BAILLIE, married Mr. Edmondstoune.

4. HELEN BAILLIE, married Mr. Henderson of Fordel.

Besides these, Sir William had Cuthbert Baillie, ancestor of Baillie of St. John Kirk and of Jerviswoode.

We might follow out the noble connections of this family, but, as space will not permit, we will now proceed from Richard, who, upon the extinction of the male line of his brother Andrew's line, became the chief of the family.

Richard, son of Sir William and Marion (Hume)

*NOTE.—Name of other two sons not mentioned.

Baillie, is known to be the ancestor of the families of Kell of Sunnyside, near Griffin, Ga., and of the family of Harris of Milledgeville, both descendants of the old McIntosh family through the Baillies, and now we come to *Ann Elizabeth Baillie, daughter of Kenneth Baillie, Esq, who was born Sept. 27 (O. S.) 1749, and married Dr. Irvine in 1765. She died July 23, 1807. Their children were—

†I. CHARLES IRVINE, born July 22, 1766. Died Nov. 30, 1803.

II. EUPHEMIA IRVINE, born March 14, 1768. Died July 14, 1768.

*NOTE.—Robert Baillie, who lived at Sunbury, was descended from this family. Kenneth Baillie also lived at Sunbury; was a landed proprietor and one of the trustees of Sunbury. Ann Elizabeth owned land in Liberty County and in Sunbury, and both she and her husband, Dr. Irvine, lived in Sunbury for a time. Dr. Irvine was executor for Robert Carnrie Baillie. My father, Dr. William G. Bulloch, said we were related to Dr. Mathew Baillie. Now, from the above coincidences, we conclude the following; That Ann Elizabeth Baillie was the daughter of Kenneth Baillie, as she bore the same name and lived in the same town and named one of her sons Kenneth Irvine. Second—Kenneth must have been related to Robert Baillie, as his name was spelled the same and both were of Scotch extraction and both lived in the same town, and Robert was known to be a lineal descendant of the above Baillie blood. Third—Dr. Irvine was executor for Robert Carnrie Baillie. Fourth—Dr. Bulloch, my father, told me that his aunt, Sophia Evans, nee Irvine, told him we were related to Mathew Baillie, M. D. (See Baillie of St. John Kirk) same family as above. Fifth—Similarity of Christian names. Sixth—There is an Elizabeth, daughter of George Baillie (see Baillie's History), whose birth and marriage are not known. From the above, then, we claim to be lineal descendants of Sir William Wallace, Sir William Leyton of Leyton and Sir John Hamilton, Lord of Cadzow.

*NOTE.—Ann Elizabeth Baillie, wife of Dr. John Irvine, owned a plantation called Dunane. Now, from recent information furnished, the following is extracted: The Baillies, it seemed, had enjoyed the Barony of Dunane about three hundred years and came into possession of it in the following manner: The first of the Dunane family was a son of Baillie of Hoprig and Lammington, who, for his bravery as a volunteer in the Battle of Brechin, 1452, was some time after rewarded by the Earl of Huntly with this and other lands. The Baillies of Dochfour also belong to the family of Dunane. By reference to

III. ANN IRVINE, born Jan. 14, 1770, married, April 12, 1786, to James Bulloch, Jr., and had issue.

IV. ROBERT IRVINE, born Jan. 4, 1772. Died soon after.

V. ROBERT IRVINE, born Feb. 15, 1773. Died Nov. 17, 1773.

VI. JANE IRVINE, born Jan. 15, 1775; married first, Alexander Farquharson; secondly, Mr. Smith.

VII. MARGARET IRVINE, born Feb. 23, 1777, married George Ladson Dec. 7, 1809. Died July 26, 1813.

VIII. JOHN IRVINE, born May 8, 1779. Died Aug. 30, 1781.

IX. ALEXANDER IRVINE, born at Cattle Park, near Savannah, July 4, 1781, married, June 19, 1806, Sarah Ann Wingate and had issue.

X. KENNETH IRVINE, born Dec. 3, 1783, married June 21, 1804. Died Nov. 16, 1814.

XI. ELIZABETH IRVINE, born Jan. 18, 1786, married first, Thomas Baillie, Dec. 17, 1805; secondly, Mr. Powell, June 23, 1813.

XII. SOPHIA IRVINE, born Nov. 26, 1787, married William Evans, Jan. 6, 1803. Died Feb. 19, 1854.

Baillie's History it will be seen that Sir William Baillie of Hoprig married a daughter of Sir William Wallace and Marion Braidfoot and by this marriage had a son, Sir William Baillie of Hoprig and Lammington, who married Isabel, daughter of Sir William Leyton of Leyton, ancestor of the Earls of Winton, and had a son named William, who married Catharine, daughter of Sir John Hamilton of Cadzow, of the noble family of Hamilton. By this marriage there was issue, and in point of time it agrees favorably as to the descent of the Baillies of Dunane and, therefore, we may conclude that Ann Elizabeth Baillie was of the Dunane family, and daughter of Kenneth Baillie, Esq., one of the principal gentlemen and citizens of Sunbury, Liberty County, Georgia, and one of the trustees of the town.

XIII. ISOBEL IRVINE, born July 1, 1791, married, July 13, 1809, Mr. Cuthbert. Died Nov. 2, 1812.

Dr. John Irvine married his second wife, Miss Elizabeth Johnston, daughter of the Hon. Lewis Johnston, Esq., formerly one of His Majesty's Council of the Province of Georgia; his partner in the practice of medicine in Savannah and his revered and long-lamented friend.

Elizabeth Johnson was born in Savannah Nov. 7, 1761.

He married Agnes, daughter of the Earl of St. Clair, and had Sir Adam De Bruse, who had the Castle of Skelton granted to him, and became one of the Norman barons in England. His son, Sir Robert De Bruse of Skelton, married Agnes, daughter of Annan, Lord of Annandale, and became Lord of Annandale. His grandson, Sir Robert De Bruce, third Lord of Annandale, married Isabelle, daughter of David, Earl of Huntingdon, brother and heir to William the Lion. Their son, Sir Robert De Bruce, married Isabel, daughter of Gilbert De Clair, Earl of Gloucester, who married Joan of Acres, daughter of Edward I. and Eleanor, daughter of Ferdinand III., King of Castile, and by this alliance the Bruces trace to William the Conqueror and to the Royal Houses of France, Castile and England, and through another line to those of Scotland and the Saxon King, Edgar Atheling. Sir Robert and Isabel had Sir Robert, Earl of Carrick, who had Robert De Bruce, King of Scotland, who married Isabel, daughter of Donald, Earl of Mar, whose daughter, Marjory, married Walter, the High Steward, and had Robert II., who had Robert III., whose daughter, the Princess Elizabeth, married the first James Douglass, Lord of Dalkeith, father of the second Lord Dalkeith, father of Sir John Douglass, father of David Douglass of Tilwhilly.

The usual order of arranging descent by diagram being found impracticable, the author has adopted the above as the best method: The Roman numerals, for descent in regular order, although, of course, many of the children and issue of above were left out, the idea being simply to show the descent of the family in question, nor is it intended to mean that it lays claim to any crown, but simply to show descent from the Royal House of Scotland, England and Wales.

†NOTE.—The Roosevelts of New York, Captain James D. Bulloch and Irvine S. Bulloch of Liverpool, Eng., and the Dunwodys and Irvines of Georgia are all of same descent, branching from James Stephens Bulloch and Jane Bulloch, children of James Bulloch and Ann Irvine

Glen.

Richard de Glen or De le Glen, an Anglo-Norman, settled in Scotland about 1225-50 and became possessed of lands in Paisley, now in Renfrew, and the estate since called "Glen," in the Parish of Traquair, Peebleshire. Richard had several sons. Duncan del Glen was High Sheriff of Berwick upon Tweed and was slain in the wars between Baliol and Edward I. John Glen, another son, had a grant from his father of the lands of Gatflat, in the Lordship of Paisley, which was confirmed, 19, Edward I. This John de le Glen commanded the forces of the Bishop of Glasgow and was present at Falkirk and Bannockburn. He had numerous children, among whom were—

1. SIR ROBERT DE GLEN, married a daughter of King Robert the Bruce.

2. SIR JOHN GLEN, had a grant of the lands of Balminto and Glassmount, in Fife. His line became extinct.

They had a grant from David Bruce of the lands of Pettedy, in Kinghorn Fife, in which she is described as the King's sister. Calbano de Glen had a grant of the lands of Quilt, in Traquair, from Robert Bruce. John Glen, descendant of John de le Glen, continued at Paisley and the Glens were among the principal persons in the household of the Lord Abbott of Paisley. Their lands there are yet called "the lands of the Glenn." In 1452 William Glen or Glenn, "arriger," a descendant of John Glen, was a witness to the donation of the fishings in Crock at Shot by Robert, Lord Lyle, to the Monks of Paisley. William Glen had a son, James Glen, who obtained a grant from Robert, Lord Abbott of Paisley, of the lands of Bar and others near the village of Lockwinnock, Renfrew, in 1506. He is said to have been slain on Flodden Field in 1515, leaving a young son and heir, James Glen of Bar, who obtained a confirmation of the grant to his father. In 1544, James Glen followed the fortunes of his kinswoman, Mary Queen of Scots, and upon him she bestowed many favors. He was present with the Hamiltons at the fatal battle of Langside, where he so distinguished himself as to be especially marked for the resentment of the Regent.

An order was issued to take the castle and fortress of Bar and make James Glen, his kinsmen and retainers prisoners, and his estates were forfeited the same year, 1568. In 1573, the estates of James Glen of Bar were restored to his heir and by 1600 his grandson, William Glen, was possessed of them. James Glen of Bar had a great many sons, among whom may be mentioned Thomas Glen, slain at Leith, and James Glen, killed with Darney at the explosion at Kirkcaldy, he having been Groom of the Chamber to the King. He was son to James Glen, Laird of Bar, but it is uncertain whether or not his name was James. William Glen, grandson of James Glen of Bar, was killed by an accident, it is believed, in 1610, and his brother, Alexander Glen, was proved heir to his estate 23d January that year. Alexander Glen married Elizabeth, daughter of George Acheson of Edinburgh, and had several sons. Archibald Glen was proved heir to his father, Alexander Glen of Bar 9th April, 1625, and died, leaving a daughter and heiress to whom the estates descended, about 1675.

George Glen, son of Alexander Glen, graduated from the University of Edinburgh in July, 1624, and appears to have had numerous descendants. His son, George Glen, graduated from the University of Edinburgh in 1662 and his brother, Alexander Glen, 2d July, 1667.

Alexander Glen purchased Longcroft, in Linlithgow, subsequently to 1687 and afterwards an estate called Bonjtowne. A nephew of his settled in Londonderry and died in 1700, leaving issue, some of whose descendants removed to America.

I. ALEXANDER GLEN of Longcroft had issue—

I. ANDREW GLEN, who graduated from Cambridge, England, and who left a *daughter, heiress to her uncle, James Glen. She married George, Earl of Dalhousie.

*NOTE.—Burke, in his Pecrage, says that the Earl of Dalhousie married Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew Glen and heiress of her uncle, James Glen. In another place he says Elizabeth Wilson married James Glen, Captain-General and Commander-in-Chief of South Carolina," which statement does not agree with the said James Glen having an heir in the person of Elizabeth Glen, for he would scarcely leave his property to a niece when he married, early in life, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, granddaughter of Sir William Wilson Bart. With the numerous calls on Sir Bernard Burke's time and the amount of work he had to do, it is no wonder if, at times, he made mistakes. The history of the Glens was copied from some work and it evidently errs; so I am disposed to credit a written statement made by a Mrs. Barclay, who had been married to Thomas Glen, son of Judge John Glen, and by him had a son, Thomas Glen. The fol-

II. JAMES GLEN, of Longcroft, graduated from the University of Leyden, entered in 1721 and was appointed by the influence of the Earl of Dalhousie, Captain-General and Commander-in-Chief of South Carolina in 1739. He died in Scotland July 18, 1777, aged 76 years. He married Elizabeth Wilson, granddaughter of Sir William Wilson, Baronet. and had at least two sons and one daughter, among whom were—

I. JOHN GLEN, married Sarah Jones.

II. MARGARET GLEN, married John Drayton of Drayton Hall, S. C., and had—

I. GLEN DRAYTON, who married Miss Elliott, who had two sons, who died without issue.

II. THOMAS DRAYTON, who had two sons and three daughters. One daughter married a Baker, one a Grimké and one Mr. Barnard Holmes. The sons were—

1. — DRAYTON.

2. — DRAYTON, who married and had—

1. JOHN DRAYTON.

III. Dr. THOMAS GLEN, also a graduate of Leyden, entered 1724, came to South Carolina with his brother, lowing is the statement of Mrs. Barclay: (See also note and quotation of letters from Cheves, Drayton, Whaley at end of Glen history).

“Elizabeth Glen, daughter of John Glen (observe Alexander Glen had a nephew, John, who went to Londonderry, and that George, who graduated in 1662, could have had a son, John Glen, father of James and Elizabeth) and niece of and heiress of her uncle, Andrew Glen, married the Earl of Dalhousie. He had her brother, James Glen, appointed Governor of the Province of South Carolina in 1739. His son, John Glen, married Sarah Jones of Savannah, daughter of Dr. Noble Wymberley Jones, and their eldest daughter, Margaret, married William Hunter, merchant, of Savannah, who was killed in a duel by Governor Mitchell, on the outskirts of the town, in 1804 or 1805. Now, Thomas Glen married in 1811; his father died only in 1799 and surely, with the witnesses of sisters and brothers, they knew, from their father, of the descent and who his father was. Besides, other evidence corroborates the fact that Governor Glen had children.

Governor Glen, where he remained until 1755; returned to England and married, in St. George, Hanover Square, London, in 1755, Isabel Graham, widow of James Graham, late Chief Justice of South Carolina. They returned to South Carolina.

IV. Junior issue, among whom were, perhaps, Archibald Glen and his brother, William Glen, who went out with General and Governor Oglethorpe, and resided both in Carolina and Georgia, the latter principally in Charleston. William Glen died in Charleston —.

John Glen, son of Royal Governor James Glen of South Carolina and Elizabeth Wilson came to Georgia from Carolina at an early day and is the head of the old and prominent family of Glen of this State, and by its alliances with the families of Bulloch, Bourke, Bryan, Hunter, Grimes, Potter, Waldburg, Poullain, Cuyler and others, embraces a wide kinship. John Glen was a prominent man in Georgia, Chairman of Provincial Congress of Jan. 18, 1775; Member of Council of Safety June 22, 1775; twice elected Chief Justice of Georgia in 1776-78; Member of Provincial Congress of July 4, 1775, and was elected Mayor of Savannah March 13, 1797, and appointed Judge of Superior Court Jan. 26, 1798. He died May 13, 1799, aged 55 years. He married, about 1755, Sarah Jones (who died Jan. 10, 1810), daughter of the eminent physician and distinguished patriot, Dr. Noble Wymberly Jones and Sarah Davis, daughter of John Davis, Esq., and had issue—

I. Dr. JAMES GLEN, married Jan. 14, 1808, Mary Frances Lewis (died May 12, 1858) of Philadelphia and had issue, and died Aug. 5, 1815, aged 42 years.

Glen Drayton, a revolutionary officer, who married Miss Elliott and had one son, Glen Drayton, and two daughters, who all died without issue. 2. Thomas Drayton, who married and had sons and three daughters. One daughter married a Grinké, one a Holmes and one Barnard Baker. Rev. John Grinké Drayton, of Flat Rock, N. C., is of this family.

NOTE.—Another of the Glen family, it seems, whose name was John Glen, grandson of Governor Glen, married a lady whose name is unknown and had as descendants Mrs. S. Mitchell Whaley of South Carolina, Edisto Island. The children of above, John Glen, were: 1. Dr. William Glen, who married Marion Dunwody, daughter of John and Jane (Bulloch) Dunwody, but had no issue. 2. Mary Glen, married to Mr. Spann, which family have the picture of the Glens in Texas. 3. Daughter — Glen married to a Mr. Bonnetheau and had issue, — Bonnetheau; secondly — Glen to a Mr. Reeves. Issue: Refer to letters of Langdon Cheves, S. Mitchell Whaley, Rev. J. G. Drayton of Flat Rock, N. C., for above information.

Noble Jones,

Few families in America can boast of a more honorable record or of greater antiquity of descent than the one of Noble Jones of Georgia, whose ancestor came to the Colony with General Oglethorpe in 1733; a family whose members have held perhaps more positions of honor and trust than any in the State and one who, at the commencement of hostilities with Great Britain, came forth in one of its representatives Dr. Noble Wymberley Jones, aptly called the Morning Star of Liberty, and bravely stood against unjust oppression and wrong to suffering humanity.

The ancestry of this family is as follows, as can be demonstrated by the coats-of-arms they now have and which is identical to the one borne or assigned by Welsh Heralds to their ancestor, Tudor Trevor Lord of Hereford:

LINEAGE OF THE NOBLE JONES FAMILY.

Ynyr ap Cadforch, Lord of both Maelors, Owestry and Whittington, in Powys, one of the barons of that Kingdom, married Rhinegar, daughter and sole heir of Lludoca ap Caradoc Vreichfas, Lord of Hereford in South Wales, and was, by her, father of a son.

Tudor Trevor, Lord of Hereford, Whittington and both Maelors, and founder of the Tribes of the Marches. The Welsh Heralds assign to him as ensign, "Parted per bend sinister, ermine and ermines, over all a lion rampant or." The Lord of Hereford and Whittington married Angharad, daughter of Howell Dha, King of South Wales, A. D. 907, called the celebrated law-giver of Cambria, who was a direct lineal descendant of Rodri Mawhr (Roderick the Great, King of all Wales, North, South and Powys. Tudor Trevor and Angharad had issue and from their descendants the various branches of the family have sprung, intermarrying with the nobility and gentry of the Kingdom, one line becoming the Royal House of Tudor and another, at last, assuming the name of Jones from Robert ap Johns' son, taking the name of Johns, Jones. In our correspondence abroad with the family of Jones-Parry, the head of the name, agrees with me that both our family of Georgia and his are descendants of Tudor Trevor and suggests that our line may be descended from Inigo Jones, an opinion which agrees favorably with that held by me. Inigo Jones was a noted architect of his day and surveyor-general of His Majesty's works, and a man of eminent parts. The arms borne by the family of Noble Jones of Georgia are: "Parted per bend sinister, ermine and ermines, over all a lion rampant, or, with a bordure engrailed and indented, or. Crest, a demi-lion rampant, or, holding in its paws a mullet or five-pointed star, or," which shows but a slight difference between the arms of Tudor Trevor and proves the family to be descended from Tudor Trevor, the Lord of Hereford, and Angharad, the daughter of the King of South Wales. Now, let us see how this race of kingly descent has conducted itself in Georgia. The first of the name in Georgia was Noble Jones, who came to the Colony with General Oglethorpe and successively occupied the following positions of honor and trust in the Province: First, as Associate Justice of the General or Supreme Court in Georgia, the first High Court established in the Colony. Next we find him as Captain and then as Lieutenant-Colonel of Colonial Troops, bravely and in the nick of time preventing an Indian outbreak. His country seat was Wormsloe, a beautiful, romantic spot on Skidaway river, near Isle of Hope. We next find him Member of His Majesty's Council, President of the Upper House, a warden of Christ Church, and last, Treasurer of the Province, in which position he died while in the harness of service. He was also a physician and in every way a man of sterling integrity and ability. And now, what shall be said of his son, the brave, chivalrous and handsome physician, Noble Wymberley Jones? First, a Cadet in Oglethorpe's Regiment, then a Lieutenant, a Commissioner or Surveyor of Roads; Speaker of the Assembly at a time when the unjust acts of the Mother Country excited the condemnation of the Infant Colony. He nobly took the part of the latter and bravely aided in gaining the independence of the Infant Commonwealth. So great were the exertions made by him, so many the positions of honor confided to him, so strenuous the ability displayed by him in the right of justice against oppression and cruelty, that he is aptly termed the Morning Star of Liberty. We find him a vestryman of Christ Church in 1775; elected time after time delegate to Continental Congress; member of Provincial Congress; signs call to sympathize with the Bostonians; on committee to receive subscriptions for the Boston sufferers; secures military stores at Savannah, aided by Joseph Habersham and others; on Committee of Safety; delegate to Continental Congress; President of Convention for Revising the Constitution of Georgia; one of the founders and first President of Georgia Medical Society 1804 and President of Union Society. His son, Edward, member of Provincial Congress; another son, Dr. George Jones, a signer of the Constitution of Georgia and the one who suggested that article in the Constitution, "Freedom of the press, trial by jury, honesty in office-holders, security for honest debtors," and also the one for the promotion of arts and sciences. He became Judge of District Court, Mayor of Savannah and United States Senator, and was in every way one of the foremost men of Georgia, and to one of his sons, Dr. George Wymberley Jones De Renne is Georgia vastly indebted for facts of much historical interest; for his liberality in furnishing the means to procure important data which otherwise would have been lost in oblivion. Nor must we forget to notice another son of Dr. George Jones, Noble Wymberley Jones, Jr., an attorney-at-law, and his son, the genial and cultured, George Noble Jones, nor his son, Wallace S. Jones, a worthy member of the Florida Legislature and late Consul to Messina, Sicily.

Noble Jones, the first of the name, married and had issue. He died Nov. 8, 1775. His children were—

1. NOBLE WYMBERLEY JONES, married Sarah Davis.
2. INIGO JONES, married and had issue. Died Oct. 1, 1789.
3. MARY JONES, married James Bulloch, Sr., third wife, and died 1795, leaving no issue.

I. NOBLE WYMBERLEY JONES, called the Morning Star of Liberty, was born about 1732 and died Jan. 9, 1805. He was Speaker of Assembly in Colonial times, Surveyor or Commissioner of Roads, Member of Provincial Congress, Delegate to Continental Congress, on Council of Safety in 1775; vestryman of Christ Church, 1775; on several important committees to aid the suffering poor of Boston and to distribute ammunition to troops, and member of the Constitutional Convention to revise the Constitution of the State and president of that body; president and one of the founders of the Georgia Medical Society and President Union Society. He married, about 1750, Sarah Davis, daughter of John Davis, Esq., and his wife, Theodora, and had—

1. SARAH JONES, married Judge John Glen and died Jan. 17, 1810.
2. EDWARD JONES, member of Provincial Congress, died June 11, 1789.
3. JOHN JONES.
4. CATHARINE JONES, married John Joshua Ward 1793 and died 1795.

5. Dr. GEORGE JONES, married first, Mary Gibbons, daughter of William Gibbons, and had issue; secondly, Mrs. Maria Cambell; thirdly, *Mary Smith, and by the latter had—

I. Dr. GEORGE WYMBERLEY JONES DE RENNE,[†] who married Mary Nutall, (daughter of Col. Nutall and Miss Savage), and had—

I. WYMBERLEY JONES DE RENNE, married Mrs. Laura Norris, née Camblos, of Philadelphia, on the 22d of June, 1880, and has issue.

II. EVERARD DE RENNE, M. D.

III. LETITIA DE RENNE, died unmarried.

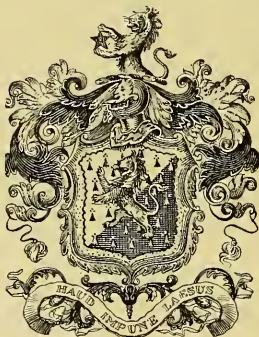

IV. KENTWIN DE RENNE, died unmarried.

Wymberley Jones De Renne and wife had—

1. ELFRIDA DE RENNE.

2. AUDREY DE RENNE.

3. WYMBERLEY WORMSLOE DE RENNE.

W. J. De Renne.

II. LETITIA JONES, died unmarried.

Dr. George Jones, born in Savannah in February, 1766, son of Dr. Noble Wymberley Jones and Sarah Davis and brother of Sarah, who married Judge John Glen,

*NOTE.—Mary Smith, who married Dr. George Jones, was the daughter of Thomas Smith, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, who died March 31, 1809. He married Letitia Van Deren, who died in 1811. See Christ Church, Philadelphia.

†NOTE.—Added De Renne to his name in 1866 by decree of court.

prominent character of Georgia, Mayor of Savannah, was a Vice-President Union Society, physician, Judge of Superior Court and United States Senator. He died Nov. 1, 1838.

By his first marriage to Mary Gibbons, Feb. 1, 1783, daughter of the prominent patriot and influential man, William Gibbons, he had—

I. NOBLE WYMBERLEY JONES, attorney-at-law.

II. SARAH JONES, married Alfred Cuthbert, United States Senator, and had—

1. ALFRED CUTHBERT.

I. NOBLE WYMBERLEY JONES, son of Dr. George Jones and Mary Gibbons, was married in October, 1784, in Charleston, to Sarah Cambell, who died, July 1, 1843, at Newport, R. I., daughter of McCartin Cambell and Sarah Fenwick, daughter of Edward Fenwick and Mary Drayton, daughter of Thomas Drayton, son of Thomas Drayton, who married Ann Booth, related to Earl of Warrington. Thomas Drayton, Jr., married Elizabeth Bull, first daughter of Governor William Bull and Mary Quinton. Edward Fenwick was King's Councillor and son of John Fenwick, King's Councillor, who married Elizabeth Gibbes, daughter of Robert Gibbes of South Carolina. The Fenwicks were of the ancient family of Fenwick of Staunton.

The issue of the marriage of Noble Wymberley Jones and Sarah Cambell were—

I. G. NOBLE JONES, married Mrs. Mary Nutall.

II. MARY JONES, married W. H. Harison and had—

1. W. H. HARISON, M. D., who married his cousin, Maria Cambell.

III. F. JONES, married Holloway Gardiner of Maine.

G. Noble Jones, only son of Noble Wymberley Jones and Sarah Cambell, born May 25, 1811, married Mary Wallace, daughter of Thomas Savage and Mary Wallace, who was born October, 1812, and daughter of Hon. James Wallace, British Vice-Consul at Savannah.

The children of G. Noble Jones and Mrs. Nutall, née Mary Wallace Savage, were—

I. GEORGE FENWICK JONES, who married Anna Wyllly Habersham, (daughter of William Neyle Habersham and Josephine Habersham, lineal descendants of the gallant Habersham brothers, Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph and Major John Habersham, sons of Governor Habersham and Mary Bolton, son of James Habersham, Beverley, Yorkshire, Eng.) See Bolton's memoirs and Adams, family for descent.

G. Fenwick Jones and Anna Habersham had—

1. JOSEPHINE JONES.
2. MARY SAVAGE JONES.
3. NOBLE JONES.

II. WALLACE SAVAGE JONES, member of Florida Assembly and Consul to Messina.

III. SARAH CAMBELL (LILLIE) JONES.

IV. NOBLE JONES, dead.

I. *INIGO JONES, second son of Hon. Noble Jones and brother of Dr. N. W. Jones, married and had issue. He died Oct. 1, 1789.

I. NOBLE WYMBERLEY JONES, married and had—

1. N. W. JONES.
- II. SARAH JONES.
- III. MARY JONES.

*NOTE.—Can not say what has become of his descendants, though know he has one, living to this day.

Sarah Jones married Dr. John Love May 22, 1783. Their daughter, Elizabeth Love, married April 4, 1810, to P. B. Oram.

NOTE.—The exact description of the coats-of-arms of the Noble Jones family is as follows: Shield—Bordure engrailed, field, or; a partie per bend sinister, field sable with ermine, argent; dexter field, argent, with sable ermine, charged with a lion rampant. Crest—Demi-lion rampant, holding a mullet in paws, indicative of third son. Motto—"Vigilias Ago." We thus see that the family of Jones of Georgia are descendants of a third son of the family.

Davis.

This family were of English extraction and it is said came to America and settled in Dorchester, Mass.; leaving there, went with a colony to Dorchester, S. C., and eventually settled in Sunbury, Liberty County, Georgia. They were Episcopalians. The first of the name was John Davis. We find John Davis had a grant of 500 acres of land in 1749 and that John Davis was also a Commissioner or Surveyor of the Roads, who, we presume, was the same gentleman, as he is associated with the Jones', and his, John Davis' daughter married Dr. N. W. Jones; so we see that he was a gentleman and land-owner in Colonial times. He died Dec. 17, 1776, aged 70 years and 7 months. His wife was Theodora Davis, but do not know her maiden name. Their children were—

I. SAMUEL DAVIS, born June 21, 1753; died March 29, 1772.

II. JOHN DAVIS, born Oct. 29, 1739; died March 29, 1779.

III. SARAH DAVIS, married Dr. N. W. Jones.

IV. CATHARINE DAVIS, married Samuel Morcock April 7, 1766, and died 1813, aged 70 years. Their children were—

I. SARAH MORCOCK, born Sept. 9, 1774, married P. D. Woolhopter, whose son, P. D. Woolhopter, married Eliza Morris Selleck and had issue.

II. AUVIS MORCOCK, born Sept. 17, 1778, died Nov. 3, 1811. aged 33, married Elizabeth Butler. Their children were—

I. WILLIAM MORCOCK, married Susan Agnew of Beaufort, S. C., and had—

1. WILLIAM MORCOCK.
2. COOPER MORCOCK.
3. P. D. MORCOCK.
4. SIBBIE MORCOCK.
5. MARY MORCOCK.

Sibbie married in Washington, Wilkes Co., Georgia.

III. WILLIAM MORCOCK, son of Samuel Morcock and Catharine Davis, married Elizabeth Milligan.

John Davis, son of John, married and had one daughter—

I. MARY DAVIS, married to Hamilton Grant and had—

1. SARAH GRANT.
2. AMELIA GRANT.
3. ELIZA GRANT.

Theodora Patterson of Burke County was a relative.

Wilson.

This family is of ancient Yorkshire descent, Thomas Wilson, Esq., of Elton, 1250.

John Wilson of Sheffield House, County Sussex, barrister-at-law, who married, in 1601, Mary, second daughter of Thomas Gardener, Esq., of London, Eng., Master of the Fine Office, and had issue, third and eldest surviving son, William Wilson, Esq., East Bourne, a distinguished cavalier in the civil wars, was created a baronet March 4, 1660. Sir William Wilson married Mary, daughter of Francis Haddon, Esq., descended from the Haddons of East Haddon, County Northampton, by whom he had five sons and two daughters. Sir William, dying in 1685, was succeeded by his eldest son, Sir William Wilson, second Baronet, who married Rechard, second daughter and heiress of R. Pecock, Esq., of North End, Middlesex, and had William Wilson, who married Jane, only daughter and heir of Nicholas Townley, Esq., of the Inner Temple and of Littleton, in Middlesex, by Jane, his wife, daughter and co-heiress of Nicholas Geldredge, Esq., of East Bourne, and, dying in 1713, left issue—

I. SIR WILLIAM WILSON, succeeded to his grandfather; died, unmarried, Jan. 23, 1723.

II. ELIZABETH WILSON, married to James Glen, Esq., of Linlithgow, N. B., Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of South Carolina. who had—

1. JOHN GLEN, married Sarah Jones and had issue.

2. MARGARET GLEN, married Hon. John Drayton of Drayton Hall, South Carolina.

The Baronetage was inherited by a cousin and descendant of the first Baronet.

Arms, Sa., a wolf rampant, in chief, three estoiles; creation 1660. Crest—A demi-wolf, as in the arms. Mottoes—"Res non Verba" and "Pro legibus ac regibus." Seats—Searles, Sussex, Charlton House, Kent.

Lewis.

The name of Lewis is an ancient and a highly honorable one in Virginia, and in Wales is of noble descent; but, as it is as yet undecided where all the different branches of Lewis came from, we are undecided as to where this branch rightfully belongs. The Lewis family of Georgia came from Virginia and first settled in Edgefield District, South Carolina, and moved to Georgia before the Revolutionary War. The family is related to the Washington family. The name of the brothers who came to Georgia were Abram, Isaac, Joseph, Samuel, Jacob and Judah and Elijah. Judah was killed during the Revolution by being hit with a spent ball and died from the effects of the injury. We find Capt. Elijah Lewis pursuing a party of Indians in 1788, and among other names we find J. Lewis and Elijah Lewis taking the oath of allegiance to the King about 1770-72, before the Revolutionary War; but when that crisis came the Lewises took part with the Colonies in the struggle for independence, and we find that Joseph Lewis served with his brother, Capt. Elijah Lewis in his company during the war and was in active service. The Lewis brothers moved to Liberty County, Ga., and, like General Washington, their kinsman, were all surveyors. Judah was also a soldier and was said to have been present at the action when the brave General Screven was killed at Midway Church. Samuel Lewis, a first cousin of John

Lewis, was the father of Mrs. Wilder, Mrs. Pinchon and Mrs. Parsons, and son of Samuel, one of the brothers, and was a planter in Liberty County, Georgia. The Lewises have numbered men of sterling integrity and of active capacities. The head of the Savannah branch was John Lewis, born in Liberty, old McIntosh County and died at his daughter's residence in 1869. He commenced life with but little, but rose to be an eminent merchant, and was Elder in Independent Church of Savannah, Superintendent of the Roswell, Cobb County, Sunday School, Deputy Collector of Port of Savannah, and on Nov. 18, 1858, at Cartersville, Ga., was made Chairman of the "Cherokee Presbytery Elders and Deacons' Convention" for the ensuing year. This presbytery was composed of thirteen counties and, of course, to be chairman of it was a truly honorable position to hold. John Lewis was a large landed proprietor and retired from active life to his country estate in Roswell, Cobb County, Georgia. He was the son of Joseph Lewis and Margaret ^{Susan} Harris of Harris Neck, in Liberty County. ^{brother} Joseph Lewis, the father of John Lewis and brother of the aforementioned Lewis, was born in Jamestown, Va., April 5, 1746, and died in Georgia May 10, 1801. He was ^{grand}son of Samuel Lewis, of Jamestown, Va., and Charlotte Virginia Morgan. John Lewis was Sergeant of the Liberty Independent Troop, Liberty County, in 1812, and also served in Major Berrien's Company in 1812 after coming to Savannah. He was an exemplary man, high-toned, honorable and a true Christian. He left two sons and two daughters; the eldest, John N. Lewis, a representative man, one of the trustees of the Independent

Church and for years a bank officer, and Robert Adams Lewis, who served on the bench as one of the Justices of the Inferior Court for ten years; also served for many years as a member of City Council, being Chairman of Finance and Chairman of Council, and he could easily have been made Mayor of the city; as it was, he was acting Mayor of Savannah, was Chairman of Commissioners of Pilotage and was a representative merchant and business man of Savannah and owner of a fine residence in Roswell, Cobb County. During the late war the Lewis brothers, Robert, John and George, sons of John N. Lewis, Esq., were gallant soldiers.

John Lewis married Susan Adams on Tuesday, Dec. 12, 1809, daughter of Nathaniel Adams, Esq., planter, of White Bluff and his wife, Annie Bolton, daughter of Robert Bolton, Esq., first Postmaster of Savannah, and one who held many important positions in Royal Colonial days, but who sided with the Colonists, and was Justice of the Peace at White Bluff when he died. Robert Bolton was the son of Robert Bolton of Philadelphia, a merchant and representative citizen and warden of Christ Church, Philadelphia, who had married Ann Clay, née Curtis, daughter of Winlock Curtis and Ann Bowers, son of John Curtis of Kent on Delaware and a large landed proprietor, formerly of Kent, England.

The Boltons were lineal descendants of the Lords Bolton, descendants of the ancient Saxon Earls of Mercia. Robert Bolton of Savannah married Susannah Mauvé, daughter of Matthew and Jane Mauvé, French Huguenots, and very rich, who had to leave Switzerland, where they had resided, and fly to America. The old Bible, which must have been a fine one, is in possession of the writer.

John Lewis and Susan Adams had

4. JOSEPH LEWIS, father of John Lewis.
5. SAMUEL LEWIS.
6. ELIJAH LEWIS.
7. JUDAH LEWIS.

8. DEMPSEY LEWIS, married Capt. John Weber of Edgefield District, South Carolina.

Isaac and Elijah died about 1809. Isaac married Miss Kirkland of South Carolina. Elijah married Sarah Hines of Effingham County, Georgia, about 1800. When he died his widow married General Daniel Stewart in 1809. Judah was killed in the battle at Middleton's Hill, half-way between Riceborough and Midway Church, (under command of General Screven.) Elijah was a captain during the war. Joseph died in McIntosh County. Samuel was killed by Indians in Tennessee. His widow married Mr. Fulsome of Natchez, Miss., and had one son—

1. WILLIAM FULSOME.

Susanna first married, —; secondly, Nathan Williamson. Drusilla Hines married William Way about 1800. At his death she married Samuel Lewis 1st of August, 1809, and died Aug. 4, 1829. William Way was born Aug. 1, 1803. Susan S. was born April 12, 1805. Susan S. married, in 1823, William I. Way.

History of Seton Family.

John Seton, twenty-second in descent from Dougall Seton, who flourished in the Eleventh Century and who married Jennet Quintsey, daughter of the Earl of Winton, and eleventh in descent from John, youngest son of Sir Alexander Seton, the third, of historic fame in connection with defence of Berwick Castle in 1333, which John married Elizabeth Ramsay, Heretrix of Parbroath. The elder branch of the family was continued with distinction by Sir Alexander Seton, fourth of the Lords of Seton, and is now represented by the Earl of Winton. John Seton of London married Elizabeth Seton of Belssies and had, besides others, Margaret Seton, who married Andrew Seton in 1760 and settled in 1773 at Brookhaven, Long Island; afterward in Brooklyn. His house was sacked by the British and everything was destroyed. He died in 1794 at Jamaica, W. I., and is said to have come of the Setons of Barnes. Andrew Seton and Margaret Seton, his wife, had, besides others, Isabella Seton, married to Robert R. Henry, an eminent merchant and gentleman of Albany, N. Y., and son of Robert Henry and Miss Verner. The issue were—

I. ROBERT SETON HENRY.

II. CHARLES SETON HENRY, Lawyer and Judge in Savannah, Ga.

IV. JOHN V. HENRY.

V. MARGARET V. HENRY.

VI. CHARLOTTE HENRY, married Col. George W. McAllister.

VII. ISABELLA SETON HENRY, married J. H. Hardee, M. D., and had issue.

VIII. FRANCES SIMOND HENRY, married John N. Lewis and had issue.

Adams.

[The Adams family is an old one and dates back in Georgia to 1741. Our ancestor, Nathaniel Adams, came from South Carolina, was a planter and came to Georgia and resided at White Bluff, where, in 1806, he died, highly esteemed for his noble character and honest manliness. He married Annie Bolton, who was the daughter of Robert Bolton and Susannah Mauvé, daughter of Mathew and Jane Mauvé,] the former from Berne, the latter from Vevay, Switzerland—French Huguenots and very wealthy—they brought with them only their jewels, which they secreted in a chair made for the purpose, and a handsome large Bible, all beautifully illustrated, which is in possession to this day of one of their direct descendants, Mrs. M. E. Bulloch, née Lewis. Mathew Mauvé and Jane came to Georgia before 1740. The former was one of the Commissioners or Surveyors of the Roads in the Colony. Robert Bolton was the first Postmaster of Savannah and was Commissioner of the Workhouse, Superintendent of the Watch in 1757, one of the Collectors for Savannah in 1768 for Christ Church, in 1770 Messenger to Council and Upper House, Armorer in 1773, Vendue Master and Justice of the Peace in 1783. He died in Savannah or at White Bluff May 4, 1789, aged 67 years. He was born in Philadelphia Jan. 1722; sided with the Colonies and had a son, Robert, who served with Washington at Trenton, and was at the siege of Savannah. Robert, Sr., of Savannah was the son of Robert Bolton of Philadelphia, Pa., a warden of Christ Church and prominent merchant, who married Ann Curtis, daughter of Winlock Curtis and Ann Bowers, daughter of Samuel Bowers and Elizabeth Dunster. Winlock Curtis was the brother of Chief Justice John Curtis and son of John Curtis of Kent on Delaware, a large landed proprietor from Kent, England. Robert Bolton of Philadelphia was the son of John Bolton of Wales, West Riding of Yorkshire, son of John Bolton of Brookhouse, gentleman son of Gyles Bolton, a descendant of the Lords Bolton, descendants of the ancient Earls of Mercia.

ARMS OF ROBERT BOLTON, ESQ., OF SAVANNAH, GA.

The name of Adams is said to have been L'Adam, but whether they removed from France to Wales we know not, as the first ancestor of this branch was Richard Adams of Wales, and it is said the Adams of South Carolina, Georgia and Massachusetts are all related. Richard Adams had two sons—

1. NATHANIEL ADAMS, married Annie Bolton.
2. EDMUND ADAMS, married — — —.

Edmund had David and Samuel. The latter married a Barnard, granddaughter of Col. John Barnard, son of Sir John Barnard, Lord Mayor of London, and had William B. Adams (married Leilia Pratt), father of Judge A. P. Adams (who married Sallie Olmstead, daughter of Col. Charles H. Olmstead), and Samuel B. Adams, City Attorney, and others. David Adams was the progenitor of the Williamses and others in Georgia.

Nathaniel Adams and Annie Bolton had—

I. NATHANIEL ADAMS, married Mary Ann Wylly, daughter of Col. Richard Wylly and Mary Bryan, daughter of Hugh Bryan, brother of Jonathan Bryan, sons of Joseph Bryan, Esq., planter, and Janet Cochran, of the old Bryan and Cochran families of Carolina. Richard Wylly had previously married Mary, daughter of Hon. Jonathan Bryan and widow of John Morel, and by this marriage was progenitor of the Woodbridge family.

II. SUSAN ADAMS, married John Lewis.

III. MARGARET KING, née ADAMS, married John Lewis; his second wife.

IV. THOMAS ADAMS, married Mary Higginbotham and had issue—

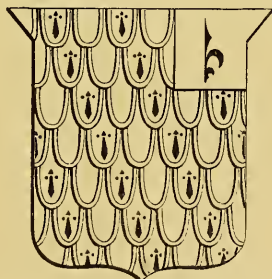

I. KATE ADAMS.

II. ROBERT ADAMS, married and had—

1. JOSEPH ADAMS.

2. MAY ADAMS.

V. ANN ADAMS, married John Bolton.

ARMS OF MATTHEW MAUVÉ, ESQ., OF SAVANNAH, GA.

Nathaniel Adams, Jr., married Mary Ann Wyly, daughter of Col. Richard Wyly, a Revolutionary officer and Quartermaster-General of the Continental line of the Georgia Brigade and President of the Rebel Council, who married Mary, daughter of Hugh Bryan, brother of Hon. Jonathan Bryan, the noted patriot, sons of Joseph Bryan of South Carolina, planter, and Janet Cochran. The Bryans were of the ancient family of Brian-Brampton, descended, in all likelihood, from the Lord of Brian-Brampton.

The children of Nathaniel Adams, Jr., and Mary Ann Wyly were—

I. ANN WYLLY ADAMS, married Dr. Joseph Clay Habersham, son of Hon. and Major John Habersham and Sarah Ann Camber, daughter of Thomas Camber, Esq., of South Carolina, a family related to the Walker, Walton and Butler families of Georgia and Carolina. Major Habersham was a noted Revolutionary officer, member of Continental Congress, President of Executive Council, and was the son of Governor James Habersham and Mary Bolton, son of James Habersham, Esq., of Beverley, Yorkshire, Eng.

The children of Ann Wyly Adams and Dr. Joseph Clay Habersham were—

I. JOSEPHINE HABERSHAM, married her first cousin, William Neyle Habersham, son of Robert, grandson of Lieut.-Col. Joseph Habersham and Isabella Rae, brother of Maj. John Habersham. Their children were—

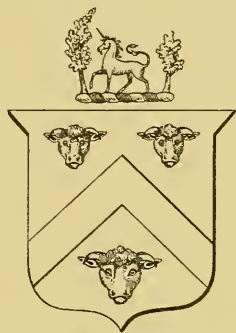

1. JOSEPH CLAY HABERSHAM.
2. WILLIAM NEYLE HABERSHAM.
3. ANNA WYLLY HABERSHAM, married George Fenwick Jones and had issue.

4. LILLA NEYLE HABERSHAM, married Wellborn Colquitt and had issue.

5. MAYBELLE HABERSHAM, married William D. Simkins and had issue.

6. ROBERT BEVERLEY HABERSHAM, married Margaret Schley and had issue.

7. EDWARD HABERSHAM.

ARMS OF JOHN CURTIS, ESQ., KENT COUNTY, DELAWARE.

1. JULIA FOOTMAN.

2. THOMAS FOOTMAN.

IV. MARGARET ADAMS (daughter of Nathaniel Adams, Jr., and Mary Ann Wyly), married Joseph Stiles (son of Samuel Stiles and —.) The Stiles of Georgia, who came over from Bermuda, were grandsons of Governor Stiles of Bermuda and came to Georgia in 1769. Samuel Stiles took a most prominent part in the Revolutionary War and was largely instrumental in helping to free the Colonies, as much of the powder used during the Revolution came from Bermuda, and Mr. Stiles was the gentleman who aided in getting it. They settled a plantation in Bryan County, Ga. The family is a well-known one in Georgia and has furnished men of note to the country. The issue of Margaret Adams and Joseph Stiles were--

I. SAMUEL V. STILES, married Caroline Rogers and has issue--

1. S. W. STILES, married Georgia Jacob and has issue.

5. MARGARET VERNON STILES.

S. W. Stiles and Georgia Jacob had--

1. SAMUEL STILES.

2. AGNES STILES.

WYLLY FAMILY.

The first account we have of this family dates to an early period, for we find Edward Wyly had a grant of land as far back as 1666, of the lands of Bonnacally and Dowan, Barony of Ouna and Ana, County Tipperary, Ireland. Of this family the Georgia Wyly line descend, one of whom was the noted Revolutionary patriot, Col. Richard Wyly.

V. HESTER R. ADAMS (daughter of Nathaniel Adams,

Turner Family.

On pages 149, 150 and 151 certain errors were committed in regard to the Turner family, for which the author now makes amends. It seems that the first of the name, Lewis Turner, came to Georgia from England in 1760 and had granted to him by the Crown the estate known as Whitemarsh Island (Lacy's Island being a part of it), where for generations the Turners have been planters. Richard Turner, the brother of above, married Elizabeth Barnard, as has been stated, and had, besides others, a son—Lewis Turner, who married Susan Tebeau, daughter of F. E. Tebeau, whose family came to the Colony at an early day. Among the issue of the above marriage was Lewis Tattnall Turner, who married Letitia Mills, daughter of Charles Mills and Miss Lewis, and had, beside others, Lewis T. Turner, a prominent merchant, who married Mary Wylly Newell and had issue, and Josephine Turner, married to Thomas M. Newell and has—1. Thomas M. Newell. 2. Josephine Hester Newell.

NOTE.—The errors were: Lewis Turner married Miss Gibson. It should be Miss Tebeau; and instead of R. Turner, should be Lewis Tattnall Turner, married Miss Mills, not Lewis; also from Whitemarsh, not Wilmington Island.

Jr., and Mary Ann Wyly), married Capt. Thomas Newell and has—

I. ROBERTA NEWELL.

II. ELLA NEWELL, married L. Y. Gibbs.

III. NANNETTE NEWELL, married James B. West and has—

1. JAMES BOLTON WEST, married Ella Shivers.

2. THOMAS NEWELL WEST.

3. STELLA WEST.

IV. MARY NEWELL, married Lewis T. Turner and has—

1. MAY ELLA TURNER.

2. LEWIS NEWELL TURNER.

3. FRANCIS MUIR TURNER.

4. GIBSON TURNER.

The Turners belong to Wilmington Island and were direct descendants of Col. John Barnard, Captain of King's Rangers, (son of Sir John Barnard, Lord Mayor of London.) This Col. John Barnard married Jane Bradley in London in 1743, and his daughter, Elizabeth Barnard, married R. Turner, whose son, — Turner, married Miss Gibson, whose son, R. Turner, married Miss Lewis, whose son, Lewis Turner, married Mary Newell.

V. THOMAS NEWELL, married Josephine Turner and has—

1. THOMAS NEWELL.

2. JOSEPHINE NEWELL.

NEWELL FAMILY.

The Newells were originally from Connecticut and came to Georgia at an early day and have been long settled in Georgia.

Thomas Newell married Rebecca Bolton and had—

1. THOMAS NEWELL.

2. ROBERT NEWELL.

Gamaliel Newell was a brother of Thomas, who married Rebecca Bolton, and married Rebecca Foster, the issue being one daughter, who married Capt. Thomas Newell, her cousin, son of Thomas and Rebecca Bolton. Capt. Thomas Newell married secondly, Hester R. Adams. By the first marriage to Rebecca Newell, (daughter of Gamaliel and Rebecca Foster), he had Susette, who married her cousin, Richard Wylly Adams, (the seventh child of Nathaniel Adams, Jr., and Mary Ann Wylly), and has—

1. RICHARD ADAMS.

2. HETTIE ADAMS.

3. SUSAN ADAMS.

4. WILLIAM JAMES BULLOCH ADAMS.

TURNER FAMILY.

We find very early mention of the Turner name in the Colony of Georgia and this family have followed the occupation of planters for generations.

Richard Turner, Esq., planter, married Elizabeth Barnard (daughter of Col. John Barnard, a Captain of the King's Rangers in the Colony of Georgia), who married Jane Bradley in London in 1743. Col. Barnard was the son of Sir John Barnard, Lord Mayor of London. (For arms of Barnard see Burke's General Armory).

By the marriage of Richard Turner to Elizabeth Barnard there was born — Turner, who married Miss Gibson of Wilmington Island, Georgia, and had issue—

I. RICHARD TURNER, married Miss Lewis and had, besides others—

1. LEWIS T. TURNER, married Mary Newell.

VI. HELEN G. ADAMS, (daughter of Nathaniel Adams, Jr., and Mary Ann Wyllly), married Charles Sydney Stewart, (son of Charles Stewart of Scotland and Miss Pritchard), and had—

1. CHARLES STEWART.

2. SEYMOUR C. STEWART.

The children of Ann Wyllly Adams and Dr. Joseph Clay Habersham, Sr., were—

I. JOSEPHINE HABERSHAM, married William Neyle Habersham, as has been stated.

II. MARY ANN F. HABERSHAM, married Joseph Washburn.

III. Dr. JOSEPH CLAY HABERSHAM, Jr., married Mary Anna Stiles.

IV. JOHN BOLTON HABERSHAM, married Frances E. Hazelhurst.

V. WILLIAM WARING HABERSHAM, married Johnanna Wade.

VI. ANNA WYLLY HABERSHAM, married Rev. Charles Barrington King (son of *Barrington King and Catharine Nephew, daughter of James Nephew, planter, son of Roswell King, founder of Roswell, Ga., and Miss Catharine Barrington.) The Kings were an ancient Yorkshire family and first went to Connecticut, a branch subsequently moving to Georgia. Issue—

1. KATANA KING, married Hugh Caperton and has issue.

*NOTE.—Of the ancient family of Barrington. (See Barrington in Burke's Peerage.)

8. EDITH KING, married James U. Jackson and has issue.

VII. FANNY HABERSHAM, married Louis Manigault and has—

1. LOUIS MANIGAULT.

2. JOSEPHINE MANIGAULT, married Mr. Jenkins.

3. CHARLES MANIGAULT.

Hugh Caperton and Katana King had issue—

1. HUGH CAPERTON.

2. CHARLES BARRINGTON CAPERTON.

3. ANNA HABERSHAM CAPERTON.

4. EDWIN CAPERTON.

5. THOMAS BOWYER CAPERTON.

6. CARTHRAE CAPERTON.

Habersham King and Rebecca Strohbar have issue—

Hunter.

The family of Hunter is an old one in Georgia and is descended from Col. John Hunter of the British Army, who was a scion of the ancient family of Hunter of Hunterston, of Scotland, which line bore as its arms: Vert, three dogs of the chase, courant, arg., collared, or, on a chief; of the second, three hunting horns of the first stringed, gu. Crest, a greyhound, sejeant, arg.; collared, or. Motto, "Cursum perficio." From the seal in possession of the Hunter family on which is the greyhound we do not think we err when we accord to the Georgia family the above origin. The Hunters came to America at an early day and many of them have held positions of honor and trust in the State, and among them we may refer to James Hunter, Sr., Cashier Bank of the United States; John Hunter, Paymaster in the United States Navy; William P. Hunter, Cashier Marine Bank, and the late William Hunter, a man of public spirit, refined, courteous and a noted churchman. Col. John Hunter of the British Army and a native of Letter

Kenny, Donegal County, Ireland, married three times and by each marriage had a son, which three sons, William, Alexander and James Hunter, came to America and were the founders of three separate branches of the Hunter family.

Col. John Hunter married first, Miss Cunningham and had—

I. WILLIAM HUNTER, born Oct. 8, 1767, married Margaret Glen (daughter of Judge John Glen and Sarah Jones, daughter of Dr. N. W. Jones and Sarah Davis). He died Aug. 19, 1802. His issue was—

I. WILLIAM P. HUNTER, married Miss Sturgess. His children were—

1. WILLIAM HUNTER, married Virginia Gould.
2. BAYARD HUNTER, married Elizabeth Cook.
3. LIZZIE HUNTER.
4. SALLIE HUNTER, married Joseph S. Claghorn.

William Hunter and Virginia Gould had—

1. WILLIAM P. HUNTER, married Sarah Claghorn.
2. TRACY G. HUNTER, married Sadie Allen.
3. JAMES HUNTER, married Harriott Cope.
4. ANNIE HUNTER.
5. EDWARD HUNTER, married Nona Myers.

William and Sarah (Claghorn) Hunter had—

1. SARAH GOULD HUNTER.
2. WILLIAM TRACY HUNTER.

2. ANNA GOULD HUNTER.
3. WILLIAM ALLEN HUNTER.

James and Harriott (Cope) Hunter had—

1. JULIA TRACY HUNTER.

2. GEORGE COPE HUNTER.

Edward and Nona (Myers) Hunter had—

1. NONA HUNTER.

2. MARTHA HUNTER.

Bayard and Elizabeth (Cook) Hunter had—

1. PRESTMAN HUNTER.

2. OLIVER HUNTER.

3. HORACE HUNTER.

Sallie Hunter and Joseph S. Claghorn had—

1. ANNA CLAGHORN.

2. RUFUS CLAGHORN, married Miss Hutchinson.

3. JOSEPH CLAGHORN, married Miss Gregory.

4. AUGUSTUS CLAGHORN, died.

5. SARAH CLAGHORN, married William P. Hunter.

6. MATTIE CLAGHORN, married Thomas P. Saffold.

7. LEILA CLAGHORN.

8. HATTIE CLAGHORN, married Albert C. Bacon.

Col. John Hunter married second, Miss Grove and had:

II. JAMES HUNTER, born March 17, 1781, married Eliza T. Cecil, (daughter of Leonard Cecil), and had issue. She died Sept. 28, 1862. He died July 24, 1863. His children were—

I. SARAH HUNTER, married Mr. Durand.

II. CATHARINE HUNTER, married George B. Cumming.

III. ELIZA HUNTER, married Judge John M. Berrien.

IV. LEONARD HUNTER, died Jan. 26, 1841.

V. JOHN HUNTER, married Ann Aiken and had—

1. JAMES HUNTER, married Marie Fay Blois and had issue.

2. CHARLES CECIL HUNTER.

3. GEORGE CUMMING HUNTER.

4. JOHN HUNTER.

Catharine Hunter (second daughter of James Hunter and Eliza Cecil), married George B. Cumming and had—

1. SUSAN CUMMING, married W. Grayson Mann.

Eliza Hunter (third daughter of James Hunter and Eliza Cecil), married Judge Berrien and had—

1. Dr. JAMES BERRIEN.
2. CECIL BERRIEN, married Miss Falligant and had issue.
3. HARRIET BERRIEN, married Mr. Cone, son of Judge Cone.

4. SARAH BERRIEN, married Dr. Semmes.

5. KATE BERRIEN, married George W. Anderson and had issue.

Col. John Hunter married thirdly, Miss Chalmers, and had—

III. ALEXANDER HUNTER, born Aug. 23, 1788, married Miss Bellinger, (daughter of Barnaby Bellinger), and had issue. He died March 7, 1827. His children were—

1. LIZZIE HUNTER.
2. MARGARET HUNTER.
3. SARAH HUNTER, married Andrew Low and had issue.

NOTE.—The crest or seal of the Georgia family of Hunter is now in possession of a gentleman of the name in Savannah and is supposed to be at least four hundred years old. A very ancient seal it must be from the looks of it, and there is no doubt but the family descend from the ancient family of Hunter of Hunterston, in Scotland, an eminent family allied to the nobility of that country.

Elliott.

This old family is found in Liberty County, Georgia, as early as 1752, and, according to Rev. John Jones, came from the North. If so, it must have been the family who came with and was allied to Rev. William Screven and was a prominent one, for we find the first of this family, who came with the Screvens, to have been Robert Elliott, a Councillor of Great Island, New Hampshire. His son, Humphrey, removed to Carolina with the Screvens and had a son, Robert, a Tax Commissioner, married to Elizabeth Screven, daughter of Rev. William Screven and Bridget Cutt.

Major John Elliott of Liberty County, Georgia, married Rebecca Jane Maxwell of the Maxwell family of Georgia, probably a daughter of Audley and Hannah (Powell) Maxwell or of his son, James Maxwell, and Annie Way. His son, John, afterward Senator John Elliott, married Esther Dunwody, daughter of Dr. James Dunwody and Esther Dean, widow of Benjamin Splatt, and had—

I. HESTER or HETTIE ELLIOTT, married to Maj. James S. Bulloch and had—

1. JAMES DUNWODY BULLOCH.

Senator Elliott married secondly, Martha Stewart (daughter of Gen. Daniel Stewart and Susanna Oswald), and had—

1. SUSAN ELLIOTT, married Dr. Hilborne West.

2. GEORGIA ELLIOTT.

3. CORINNE ELLIOTT, married R. Hutchinson.

4. DANIEL STUART ELLIOTT, married Lucy Sorrel and had issue.

Senator Elliott was born in 1754 and died in 1827. His widow married secondly, Maj. James S. Bulloch and had—

1. MARTHA BULLOCH, married Theodore Roosevelt and had issue.

2. ANN BULLOCH, married J. K. Gracie.

3. IRVINE S. BULLOCH, married Miss Sayre.

Dunwody.

Dr. James Dinwiddie or Dunwody, relative of Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia, came from Pennsylvania to Liberty County about 1770 and was one of the first physicians to practice in Liberty County, Georgia, and was member of the first Executive Council of Georgia as a free State. He married Esther, (daughter of Mr. Dean and Miss Marion of the Marion family of South Carolina and widow of Edward Splatt), and had—

I. ESTHER DUNWODY, married to U. S. Senator John Elliott, whose daughter, Hester, married Maj. James S. Bulloch and had—

1. Capt. JAMES DUNWODY BULLOCH.

II. Col. JAMES DUNWODY, a State Senator, who married Miss Smith, (daughter of James Smith of Darien, Ga.), and had—

1. DEAN DUNWODY, married to Miss Macdonald (daughter of Governor Macdonald of Georgia), and had issue.

III. JOHN DUNWODY, married to Jane Bulloch, (daughter of James Bulloch, Jr., and Ann Irvine and sister of John Irvine Bulloch and Maj. James Stephens Bulloch.)

Dr. James Dunwody died in 1807. His son, John, died in 1858.

Stewart.

This honorable family date back to Dorchester, S. C., and came to Liberty County, Georgia, as early as 1752. The famous General Daniel Stewart was of this family, whose daughter, Martha, married Maj. James Stephens Bulloch and had issue.

RECORD OF THE STEWART FAMILY TAKEN FROM THE FAMILY BIBLE:

Gen. Daniel Stewart (son of John Stewart) was married at Dorchester Feb. 20, 1783, by Rev. Mr. Ellington, and secondly, by Rev. Mr. Holmes, to Susanna Oswald, (daughter of Mr. Oswald), in Liberty County, Georgia, Jan. 1, 1786; thirdly, by Rev. Mr. Gildersleeve, to Sarah Lewis, March 6, 1810. Daniel McL. Stewart (son of Gen. Daniel Stewart) married to Mary Eichelberger, Jan. 1, 1824, by Rev. Mr. Morgan.

4. CORINNE ELLIOTT, married R. Hutchinson.

She married secondly, James Stephens Bulloch and had issue. (See Bulloch.)

Biographical Sketch of Theodore Roosevelt, Esq., of New York.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, one of the present Civil Service Commissioners of the United States, was born in New York on the 27th day of October, 1858, and graduated at Harvard University in 1880. Very few men of his age have risen to such prominence as he, for he has been conspicuous politically, having been in the New York Legislature during the years 1882, 1883 and 1884, where he rendered valuable services to his city, and in 1886 he was Republican candidate for Mayor of New York, and for the past four years Civil Service Commissioner. As an author, he has shone in life, having written "The Winnings of the West," "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," "Essays on Practical Politics," "Life of Thomas Hart Benton," "Naval War of 1812," and other works, and is not only an athlete, but a fine sportsman. His lineage is most distinguished and ancient on both sides, his mother having been a Bulloch of Georgia, his father a Roosevelt, the latter family dating its settlement in New York State to the earliest times when the Dutch first settled the country. This old family has contributed its share to the army and navy in time of war, to the bench and bar and to National and State Legislatures in time of peace, numbering among its members Isaac Roosevelt, of the Continental Congress, and John Roosevelt, who served in the army under Washington.

Estate of Cults.

[From John A. Henderson's History of the Parish of Banchory Devenick, Aberdeen, 1890.]

“In 1650 the proprietor of this estate was Alexander Thomson, Advocate in Aberdeen, greatgrand uncle of the first Alexander Thomson of Banchory. He was twice married and by his second wife left issue, John and Alexander, the latter of whom became an Advocate in Aberdeen and proprietor by purchase of the estate of ——.

“On 7th October, 1674, John Thomson was served, as nearest heir of his father, ‘in the lands of Cults, with the mill, mill lands, —— and portions thereof, with the salmon fishing on the water of Dee, adjoining and belonging thereto within the parish of Banchory, Devenick, County Sherifffdom of Aberdeen, held in charge of the King and his successors for service of ward and relief.’ In June, 1679, he sold this estate to Robert Irvine, son of John Irvine of Murthill, who had three years previously acquired the lands of Bielside. Irvine was twice married. First, to his relative, Jean Irvine, who died on the 21st of March, 1678, aged 32, and secondly, Margaret Coutts, who died in 1710, aged 45 years. In 1696 he had his valuation of Cults entered in the Poll Book at £286, out of which amount for himself and his lady he paid £9 12s. of poll. He also paid £2 2s. for the following children in familia: Maria, Margaret, Hillon and Bettie, Robert and James Irvine. One of the daughters became the third wife of Robert Skene of Ramore, descended of a second brother of the Laird of Skene, whilst another, Isobel, married Robert Donaldson, who was Professor of Medicine in Marischall College, Aberdeen, in 1732. Irvine, who erected a new house on the same site as that of the present one, had his coat-of-arms painted on his seat in the Parish Church. He acted as a Commissioner of Supply for many years and died on the 10th of April, 1728, aged 89. He was buried in the church-yard of Peterculter, beside his two wives. In 1750 Alexander Livingston, Provost of Aberdeen, purchased the estate from the Irvines." He also had Alexander Irvine and by his second wife, Margaret Coutts, he had Charles Irvine, married to Euphemia Douglass.

Baillie of Dunain.

From recent information in regard to the family of Baillie of Dunain, it seems that Alexander Baillie IX. of Dunain, married Jane Mackenzie, seventh daughter of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie of Coull, created a Baronet of Nova Scotia in 1673, who married a Miss Chisholm. Now it seems that Mr. Baillie of Leys went abroad and afterwards sold his property, and that he was of the family of Dunane. In point of time and in other things, everything indicates that Alexander Baillie IX. of Dunain and Jane Mackenzie (daughter of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie and Miss Chisholm) were the father and mother of Captain Kenneth Baillie of Sunbury, Liberty County, Georgia; the father of Ann Elizabeth Baillie, who married Dr. John Irvine, father and mother of Ann Bulloch. The Baillies of Dunain were a branch of the Baillies of Hoprig and Lamington (see note page 94). Ann Elizabeth Baillie owned a plantation called Dunane and named one of her sons Kenneth Irvine, and lived and owned land in Sunbury and Liberty County, Georgia.

The ancient family of Mackenzie, barons of Kintail, are descended from the house of Gerald of Ireland; a branch of this line went to Scotland and Kenneth's son, Mackenneth, by corruption of the name, became Mackenzie. The family of Mackenzie, barons of Kintail, are descendants of the families of the High Steward, the Lord of Lorn, the Macdonalds of Moidart and Glen-garry, Frasers, Grants and others, and from the Baron of Kintail Sir Kenneth Mackenzie of Coull descends.

Bedon Family.

The family of Bedon is of ancient descent and of Scotch stock. They were among the first settlers of South Carolina, having come to the Province, during its first settlement, from England, with Col. William Sayle, Governor of the Province. Not only Col. Sayle, but the majority of the first settlers, were Protestant dissenters from the Church of England. These early settlers located themselves on the western bank of the Ashley River, 1670, and laid the foundations of "Old Charleston" on the building up of the present site of Charleston, known then as "Oyster Point." The Bedons were among the first owners of property and lots, and the name of Bedon's Alley, in Charleston, takes its name from the "old family." The Bedon family is allied to and related to the ancient families of Stobo, Bulloch, Screven, Perry, Izard, Heyward and Davie, of North Carolina, the latter family being descended from *Gen. William Richardson Davie, of the Revolutionary War, 1776, a very distinguished man and patriot, after whom Davie County, in North Carolina, is named. Hyder Alli Davie, planter at Landsford, Chester District, S. C., had an only daughter, Julia Ann Davie, who married Col. Richard Stobo Bedon, a distinguished citizen and chief of this well-known family. Hyder Alli Davie was born Oct. 29, 1786, died 17th of June, 1848.

Mr. Josiah Bedon, ancestor of the Bedon family of South Carolina, resided at Beaufort, S. C., was a large land owner and planter. He owned Cat Island Plantation, in Beaufort County, and the Horseshoe Plantation, in Colleton County, and also other real estate. Mr. †Josiah Bedon married Elizabeth Stobo, one of the daughters of Richard Park Stobo and Mary Harvey, who were married in 1729. Richard Park Stobo was the son of James Stobo, of St. Paul's Parish, planter, and who was the son of Rev. Archibald Stobo and Elizabeth Stobo.

The issue of Josiah Bedon and Elizabeth Stobo were—

I. RICHARD B. BEDON, married Jane Bulloch Perry and had issue.

II. ALICE BEDON, married Dr. Richard Bedon Screven (her first cousin) and had issue.

III. KEZIAH BEDON, married Stobo Richard Perry and had issue.

IV. HYPATIA BEDON, married Lawrence Fishburne and had issue.

V. STOBO BEDON, planter, who graduated at the South Carolina College, 1814, and married Charlotte Stewart, of Beaufort, and left no issue. She subsequently married Mr. Fuller.

Col. Richard B. Bedon, a landed proprietor and planter, owned a place of 3,500 acres of land near the town of Walterboro, S. C. Col. Richard B. Bedon, who married Jane Bulloch Perry, graduated from Brown University, New Jersey, 1806, and received the first honor of his class. He was married March 15, 1809, and died in Walterboro in 1857. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church and highly respected for his Christian character, sterling worth and strict integrity.

Jane Bulloch Perry was the daughter of Dr. James Perry and Frances Hunter. Dr. James M. Perry was a lineal descendant of the Stobo family and also a descendant of James Bulloch, planter and Justice of the Peace for Colleton County in 1735. Dr. James Perry had a sister, Jane Perry, who married Mr. Charles Lowndes, member of the distinguished Lowndes family of this State. Col. Richard Bedon and Jane Bulloch

†Besides the families mentioned, Josiah Bedon and Elizabeth Stobo left other descendants, who married into well-known families, as Guerard, Cuthbert, Chisolm, Gadsden and others.

Perry had an only son, Col. Richard Stobo Bedon, planter, who graduated in the South Carolina College, 1830, and married Julia Ann Davie at Landsford, in Chester County, S. C., Dec. 30, 1830, daughter of Hyder Alli Davie, son of Governor William Richardson Davie of North Carolina.

Col. Richard Stobo Bedon was a genuine Southern planter in his manners, ideas and education. He was a polished and courteous gentleman, with valuable talent, exercised for the welfare of his country. He filled with distinction all positions of honor and trust conferred upon him by the public. Aid to Governor Means, 1850, with the rank of Colonel; President of the Agricultural Society of Colleton County; head and front of the Grange movement; a faithful representative of St. George's, Dorchester, in the Lower House for many years, and so conspicuous was his ability as a legislator that his constituents honored him with the higher position of Senator, which latter position he held for eight years, the greater portion of them during the most troubled condition of our country's history. After the war, with the rest of the noble sons of South Carolina, he retired from the political field, but never failed to respond when the interest of South Carolina called upon him. He was active in the campaign of 1876 as a member of the Democratic Executive Committee to aid in redeeming our down-trodden State from Radical government and misrule.

He died at Walterboro, S. C., April 11, 1890, aged 81 years, and was buried at the First Presbyterian Church in Columbia, S. C. "Peace to his ashes; a more devoted son to a noble mother was never laid in South Carolina sod."

Col. Richard Stobo Bedon and Julia Ann Davie had the following issue:

I. CAPT. JOSIAH BEDON, lawyer, graduated at South Carolina College in 1855; killed May 28, 1864, in Virginia, in the war between the States, and married Mary McClure and had issue--

1. ALICE BEDON, married B. P. Fishburne, M. D., and had issue.

2. JOSIAH BEDON.

II. H. DAVIE BEDON, M. D., married Rosa Easton and had issue (living in Tennessee).

III. WILLIAM ZALINSKI BEDON, M. D. (living in Mississippi), graduated at the Citadel Academy, Charleston, S. C., 1857; surgeon in the Confederate Army, and married Emily Haile and had issue.

IV. JULIA BEDON, married Col. Allen C. Izard and had issue (living in Walterboro).

V. SALLIE BOYKIN BEDON, married James Barnwell Heyward and had issue.

VI. JANE BEDON, married †Col. Thomas Stobo Farrow and had issue.

VII. ARCHIBALD STOBO BEDON, unmarried, Elder in the Presbyterian Church, and represented the Charleston Presbytery in General Assembly of the United States, when it met at Asheville, N. C., 1890, and instrumental in organizing Corinth Presbyterian Church, in Colleton County, six miles from Walterboro, May 9, 1891.

VIII. RICHARD BEDON, planter, unmarried, in Walterboro.

IX. ROBIN CARR BEDON, in California.

†Recently appointed Second Auditor of the United States Treasury.

Jackson.

Captain Bulloch Jackson, who married Mary Wyllly Adams (daughter of Nathaniel Adams and Mary Mildred Flournoy), was the son of Colonel Joseph W. Jackson, son of Major-General and Governor James Jackson and Mary C. Young, daughter of William Young, the noted patriot of 1776. Governor James Jackson was of ancient English descent and came of a family whose ancestry can be traced a long way back. Governor Jackson was a Revolutionary soldier of note, Major General of State Troops, U. S. Senator, a sterling patriot, and one who manfully defended the rights of the people against fraud and corruption. He was the brother of Henry Jackson (father of General Henry R. Jackson), and of Abraham Jackson.

The family of Jackson has been throughout a distinguished one, numbering among it men of honor and worth, not least among them the late Judge James Jackson of the Supreme Court, Captain Harry Jackson of Atlanta and his father, General H. R. Jackson, formerly Minister to the Court of Austria and to Mexico, a distinguished lawyer and President of the Georgia Historical Society, whose father, Henry Jackson, L. L. D., was Professor of Natural Philosophy and other branches in Franklin College, and Secretary of Legation to France, subsequently Chargé d'Affaires. Besides these, we may mention Jabez Jackson, son of Governor James Jackson, Member of Congress; also Colonel Joseph W. Jackson, Commander of Savannah Volunteer Guards and also Member of Congress, and his son, Bulloch Jackson, Captain of Oglethorpe Light Infantry, father of Joseph W. Jackson.
